STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill intends to secure the right of pasturage in lands formerly used as such but since encroached for cultivation or otherwise The need for such a measure will be apparent on reading cattle census reports and settlement reports of various provinces which complain of the serious want of pasturage and encroachment of land for cultivation Similarly one of the causes ascribed for the deterioration of cattle of this country has been the gross inadequacy of pasture land which is also considered to be a circumstance adverse to cattle breeding The grazing that exist in this country now are very poor both in quality and in quantity The proportion of grazing lands to the total land area of India is the minimum of all the countries being 1 27, whereas the proportion in Japan is 1 6, in Germany 1 6, in New Zealand 1 3 The great shortage of pasture land will also be apparent from a comparison of the number of acres that is available for grazing per head of cattle in different countries It is only 17 in Bengal and a little more in other provinces in India, 1 6 in the United States of America, 1 35 in New Zealand and 1 44 in Germany

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1 The object of this Bill is to compensate sufferers from acts of unlawful assemblies including those of a communal nature as occurred in the town of Dacca and its vicinity in May, 1930, and Kishoreganj, subdivision of Mymensingh district, shortly thereafter The estimated loss or damage caused to property in Dacca and its vicinity comes up to about half a crore and in Kishoreganj also, it is very heavy Families have been ruined not only by loss or damage caused to their property but also by death of earning members

2 There is no law in Bengal at present for awarding compensation in cases as aforesaid The ordinary Civil Courts are of no help to the sufferers Section 45 of the Bombay City Police Act, 1902, and section 25A of the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, provide a speedy machinery to award compensation to sufferers for injury caused by acts of an unlawful assembly Section 15A of the Police Act, V of 1861, which applies to Bengal is not applicable to cases which this Bill is expected to meet and, therefore, it has been modelled on the relevant sections of the Bombay City Police Act, 1902, and the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, as noted in the margin of the Bill It is hoped that if the Bill becomes an Act of the Bengal Legislature not only deserving sufferers may be awarded compensation by the Executive authorities but also it may check future disturbances of the public peace

3 The Act has been divided in three parts Part I deals with the town of Calcutta Part II applies to the rest of Bengal Part III is general and contains the necessary provision to save claims of sufferers from riotous occurrences from being time-barred

In clause (ii) of the Schedule to the said Act the word "rhinoceroses," shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of the Bill is to provide for adequate protection for wild rhinoceroses in Bengal. It has been found that illicit killing of rhinoceroses is on the increase on account of the high prices offered for their horns and unless adequate protection is afforded, the animal is likely to become extinct in Bengal in the near future. The Wild Birds and Animals Protection Act, 1912, under which the animal is at present protected, does not provide adequate penalties for illicitly killing, injuring or capturing rhinoceroses and the object of the present Bill is to provide adequate penalties and to prevent the extinction of the animal.

1. This Act may be called the Indian Companies (Supplementary Amendment) Act, 1932

Amendment of section 2, Act XIX of 1930

2. In the proviso substituted by sub-clause (ii) of clause (a) of section 2 of the Indian Companies Amendment Act, 1930, for the words " whereof the partners all," the words " whereof all the partners practising in India " shall be substituted XIX of 1930

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The proviso to section 144 (1) of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, as amended by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1930 (Act XIX of 1930), lays down that a firm whereof the partners all hold auditor's certificate may be appointed by its firm-name to be auditor of a company and may act in its firm-name Act XIX of 1930 has not yet been brought into force, but the attention of the Government of India has been drawn to the fact that certain accountant firms doing business in India have partners who do not visit India As the proviso stands, such firms will in future be debarred from appointment as auditors of a company in India in their firm-names, unless each partner, whether resident in India or abroad, is granted an Indian auditor's certificate, an obligation which it is undesirable to impose The object of the Bill is to remove the defect

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Legislative Assembly Department.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 3rd February, 1932 —

L. A. BILL NO 3 OF 1932

A Bill to amend the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931, for a certain purpose

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931, for the purpose hereinafter appearing, It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1. This Act may be called the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Amendment Act, 1932

Amendment of section 7, Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931

2. To section 7 of the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931, the following sub-section shall be added, namely —

'(3) For the purpose of assessing and collecting the taxes imposed by sub-section (1), the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, shall be deemed to be subject to the adaptations set out in Part IA of Schedule II to this Act" XI of 1922

Amendment of Part I, Schedule II to the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931

3. After Part I of Schedule II to the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931, the following Part shall be inserted, namely —

"PART IA

(See section 7)

Adaptations to provide for the summary assessment of such incomes

1 The Income-tax Officer may, save where he has served a notice under sub-section (2) of section 22 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, make a summary assessment of the income of an assessee to the best of his judgment and shall serve on the assessee a notice of demand in a form to be prescribed by the Central Board of Revenue, and such notice shall be deemed to be a notice of demand under section 29 of that Act

2 Any assessee in respect of whom such summary assessment has been made may within thirty days of receipt of the notice of demand, make an application to the Income-tax Officer for the cancellation or revision of the assessment, and the Income-tax Officer shall, after examining any accounts and documents and hearing any evidence which the assessee may produce, and such other evidence as the Income-tax Officer may require, determine, by order in writing, the amount of the tax, if any, payable by the assessee, and such determination shall be final

Provided that, if any assessee making such application files therewith a return of his income under sub-section (2) of section 22 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, the application shall be deemed to be a return under that sub-section and shall be dealt with accordingly

3 A copy of an order under paragraph 2 shall be served on the assessee to whom it relates and shall be deemed to be a notice of demand under section 29 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922

4 The above procedure shall apply also to the assessment and collection during the financial year 1932-33 of incomes of Rs 1,000 and upward and less than Rs 2,000 which have escaped assessment in the financial year 1931-32"

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is intended to enable the assessments of incomes exceeding Rs 1,000 but not exceeding Rs 1,990 to be carried out expeditiously and economically with the minimum of labour and inconvenience alike to the assessees and to the assessing officers, by reintroducing provisions for the summary assessment of these low incomes such as found a place in the Income-tax Act of 1918

2 It reproduces the provisions of section 30 of the 1918 Act with one important exception, namely, that the assessment notice is now to be served personally in the ordinary way in each case, whereas under the Act of 1918 notice of assessment could be given by posting lists in a public place or other similar methods of publication by which it seems likely that the fact of assessment might not be brought effectively to the notice of those concerned, many of whom may not be fully literate

3 It will be observed that it is left to the option of every assessee either to accept the summary assessment, after representing to the Income-tax Officer any objection that he may take to it, or to claim assessment on a return of income according to the usual procedure.

CALCUTTA, THE 14TH MARCH 1932

RESOLUTION No. 1035M

Minister-in-charge: The Hon'ble Mr. Bijoy Prasad Singh Roy.

Number of municipalities.—There are at present 117 municipalities in Bengal, excluding Calcutta, which lies entirely outside the scope of this Resolution The only changes made in their boundaries were local variations in English Bazar and Madaripur

2 Elections.—General elections were held in 36 municipalities and aroused a fair measure of interest in most of them. It will be noticed that though triennial elections from a common starting point should have resulted in general elections throughout the province in the same year, these are trailing out to an average year by year The reason lies in the tendency to delay reconstitution of the board over the formalities of election and the intervention of the Civil Courts. The last Dacca Municipal Board, for instance, remained in office for over five years before reconstitution could be completed.

3 Municipal meetings.—Some measure of the deliberative activity of municipal boards may be found as usual in the number of their meetings—2,426 with only 129 failures for want of a quorum The Bansbaria Board seems to have made rather a travesty of procedure with 151 meetings for a township of 6,000 population, while on the other hand the Municipal Board of Arambagh, a town from which so many complaints about public health have been heard in the Legislative Council, met only eight times in the year to tackle its own local problems Six other small townships also recorded less than one meeting a month

4 Population and rate-payers.—When discussions about franchise are so much in the air it is always useful to get back to the actualities of the municipal population and voting strength in Bengal outside Calcutta The total population in these towns, most of which include quasi-rural areas, was only 2,113,907, or 4 23 per cent of the total population of the province and of this urban population only 337,380 were rate-payers

5 Rates and taxes.—As was observed last year, in the absence of statistics of rateable value there has been no attempt to base comparisons on the proceeds per cent of rates analogous to the "penny rate" in various towns For instance, on a rough survey from data available, Chittagong with a population of 50,000 shows an annual rateable value (on which the percentage payable is fixed) of Rs 10,79,000, Dacca with a population of 118,000, an annual rateable value of Rs 21 85,000 and Burdwan with a population of 34,616, a rateable value of Rs 9,82,000 As is only to be expected rateable values as determined by assessment are on the low side, and assessment would appear to be pitched lower in Dacca, for instance, than in Burdwan These figures are given however rather as suggesting a new line of approach than as authoritative in results

The average incidence of taxation per head of population in urban areas has fallen from Rs 3-8-10 to Rs 3-3-9 Darjeeling has regained its position at the head of this scale with incidence of Rs 12-15-3 per head of population followed by Kurseong (Rs 10-0-9) and Howrah (Rs 8-13-2) Burdwan is the only other municipality in which this figure exceeds Rs 5 and it falls as low as 8, 7 and even 4 annas in some of the rural centres which still cling to a municipal constitution

6 Collections.—The figures of the municipal tax collector for 1930-31 show the first effect of economic depression on municipal finances in a marked decrease in total realisations These totalled only Rs 68 27 lakhs against Rs 71 51 lakhs in the previous year with a percentage on current demand of 88 4 against 92 87 It would be unprofitable to pick out the townships on which the shadow has fallen first, most of them among the smaller in the province Notwithstanding this tendency there were as usual two or three towns which in the effort to work off arrears realised more than one year's demand, and Midnapore is conspicuous with realisations of 107 per cent on its annual demand Naturally the total outstanding arrears increased by approximately the same figure as the fall in collections and stood at Rs 22 48 lakhs at the end of the year At the worst of times, and they were far from having been reached in March 1931, it would be a poor picture of municipal administration that shows in the province as a whole, one rupee of the previous year's taxes uncollected for every three in the demand for the current year, but that was already the position in the year under review

7 Income and expenditure.—The overall figures for receipts including opening balance and expenditure were Rs 109 9 lakhs against Rs 132 4 lakhs and Rs 96 75 lakhs against Rs 117 6 lakhs in the previous year These figures are not of much value without detailed analysis, but the fact remains that municipal expenditure outside Calcutta fell to about Rs 4 6 per head of urban population and amounts now to considerably less than one-fourth of the total expenditure and under one-seventh of expenditure per head of urban population in the metropolis

8 Education.—The total expenditure on education including the Government grant of Rs 1 21 lakhs, rose from Rs 4 8 lakhs in the preceding year to Rs 5 15 lakhs, the expenditure on primary education showing a corresponding increase of Rs. 1,43,000. The increase in the total expenditure was most marked in Kusthia (Rs. 4,895)

and this was due to the construction of a pucca building for the municipal school There were also noticeable increases in Naihati (Rs 2,617) and Rangpur (Rs. 1,579) The increase in the former was due to the extension of free primary education, while that in the latter has not been explained The expenditure fell considerably in Jalpaiguri (Rs 3,745) and there was no expenditure under this head in the new municipality of Dum-Dum and in the small municipality of Gouripur Twelve municipalities spent less than 3 2 per cent. of their ordinary income, which is the minimum proportion a municipality is expected to spend on primary education, while the ratio was over 10 per cent in 25 municipalities In Berhampur, one free primary school of the Biss type was started in addition to the existing ones and another was nearing completion The Commissioners of the Chittagong Municipality, the most progressive of all the municipalities in the matter of primary education, are still trying to introduce a scheme for free and compulsory primary education for girls The Dacca Municipality established two town girls' schools and maintained three primary schools for boys under Mr Biss' scheme, while Jhalakati paid a contribution of Rs 1,005 towards the cost of contruction of a house for the local girls' school

9 Water-supply.—The total expenditure under this head was Rs 11 34 lakhs against Rs 17 75 lakhs in the previous year showing a decrease of Rs 6 4 lakhs, but the figures for expenditure on urban water-supply vary somewhat erratically as individual projects are completed or accounted for year by year Adjustments of this nature in Raniganj and Dacca go far to account for the decrease The completion of the Asansol waterworks with their new system of decentralised supply to private connections was the most noticeable achievement of the year Extensions of the existing system were carried out in Dacca, Narayanganj and Chandpur, but difficulties encountered in the past with the Comilla system are reported to have had a discouraging effect in Bramanbaria in the same district, which abandoned any idea of constructing new works. The tendency of small towns to have recourse to local tube wells at least as readily as to supply by pipe-system from a central source, which was commented on last year, is still in evidence and may perhaps do something to alleviate the set-back arising from the enforced postponement of new capital projects which was recognised to be necessary shortly after the period under review.

10 Conservancy and drainage.—The total returns of expenditure on conservancy and drainage were Rs 25 14 lakhs and Rs 5 58 lakhs respectively, against Rs 23 76 lakhs and Rs 3 59 lakhs in the previous year These figures do not however distinguish very clearly the cost of town cleansing by manual methods, capital and recurring expenditure on sewerage, and that on the ordinary surface drain Much less do they present any opportunity for comparing the unit cost of manual cleansing between one town and another, no kind of statistics being kept of quantities removed It remains only to comment, and comment year by year, on the inveterate practice of meeting part of the conservancy costs out of general rates (to the amount of Rs 5 53 lakhs or at least 25 per cent of conservancy charges proper in the year under review) and of pocketing latrine revenues for general purpose in the few towns where they exceed requirements Completion of drainage work at Bhatpara accounts for the marked fall under this head

11 Lighting.—The gradual extension of electric lighting to the streets of district headquarter towns, as local supply companies are formed, continues to be a feature of interest under this head It is only too characteristic of the spirit in which municipal boards are apt to approach such improvements that two towns have introduced electric lighting without raising funds through the rate which is there for the purpose A dispute with the Electric Supply Company has extinguished the lamps in one of them

12 Public Health.—It is difficult to review in a few words miscellaneous activities in the field of public health of over a hundred urban authorities ranging in population from over 100,000 to below 5,000, and it should be mentioned that the narrative report of Howrah town where public health presents the biggest problem of all, comes too late for inclusion in this survey There is the same evidence of active attention to these responsibilities in the generality of towns as in previous years Expenditure on the statutory sanitary staff of Health Officers and Sanitary Inspectors remained at Rs 1 9 lakhs The Food Adulteration Act was on the whole energetically administered resulting, for instance, in the destruction of 176 maunds of unwholesome foodstuff in Dacca town and seventy prosecutions in Chittagong Government however have had occasion to express disapproval of the unauthorised practice of compromising cases under this Act Disinfections of wells and privies, especially in times of emergency, went on with varying degrees of efficiency in large towns and small Epidemics of cholera and small-pox, the general character of which will be more appropriately dealt with in the report on Public Health, were met with the usual energy, and (whatever the general level of routine functions) Commissioners' reports agree that when these special emergencies came they are effectively encountered Inoculation against cholera continues to make way in public favour at least in the immediate vicinity of the disease Vaccination against small-pox is more securely established and was performed in large numbers by the vaccinators in affected towns, but a series of prosecutions in Bhatpara illustrates the steady pressure required to ensure regular vaccination of infants Dai training classes were maintained in several towns with a Government grant, but maternity welfare work is less prominent in the reports than is to be desired, and the Minister would be glad to find more extensive mention of propaganda work such as the Baby Week Exhibition and maternity clinics, which it is believed are now organised in many towns with the assistance of the Bengal Health Week Committee.

13 Public Works.—The total expenditure on public works fell from Rs 11 4 lakhs to Rs 10 79 lakhs, this being entirely due to a decrease of Rs 66,000 in expenditure on roads The roads affected are naturally for the most part local roads only of importance to the townspeople themselves, but in the 24-Parganas district the problem of the liability of individual municipalities for the maintenance of a main road carrying through traffic has assumed an entirely new prominence owing to the expansion of motor traffic.

14 Loans.—The loans statistics serve well to illustrate the petty scale of capital works and limited credit of Bengal municipalities Thirty-six municipalities were in debt to Government at the close of the year and their total indebtedness amounted only to Rs 23,47,830 The total borrowing during the year amounted only to Rs 1,80,000 in loans to three towns for waterworks while three other towns paid off the balance of their loan account The net result was a further contraction of Rs 2 7 lakhs in total indebtedness on the figures of the previous year, and there can be little doubt that, with the inability of Government to lend and the inability of the towns to raise loans in the open market, they will continue to repay more than they borrow for the next year or two

15 Audit of accounts.—It is perhaps not sufficiently recognised that Government provide a free annual audit for municipal accounts, and only six municipalities were omitted from the audits of the year under review The annual report of the Examiner of Local Accounts is now published in the Calcutta Gazette, and continues to present a somewhat depressing picture of the general level of municipal accounts and of the inattention of the boards to audit comments and criticisms Audit disclosed financial irregularities in the towns of Chittagong, Burdwan, Jamalpur and Madaripur during the year which resulted in three cases in prosecution of the municipal staff

16 General remarks.—There is an inevitable risk of monotony in summing up the general impression from the reports on municipalities year by year The tides of civic progress rise slowly in the existence of a district town, and, while constitutions come and go, the Bengal Municipality remains If there is one feature on which reports are in agreement it is that an increased measure of independence in the assessing authority, however it is to be attained, is the first essential for the proper development of these local bodies. Therein lies the distinction between district board and municipality The latter alone enjoys the full measure of self-government which comprehends self-taxation, and too often through subservience to the pressure of rate-payer or municipal council the assessing authority fails to exercise its functions with strictness of judgment and independence of vision Where self-taxation fails local self-government fails, and the only remedy lies in devising a system which, while leaving the deliberative body full discretion as to the principles and scale of taxation, prevents the assessing authority from undue interference in the contentious task of valuation The Minister hopes soon to place before Council a general measure for the amendment of the Bengal Municipal Act and the opportunity will then arise of finding some solution of this difficult problem This Bill which is based on that of 1925 with adjustments made on the advice of a Committee appointed in 1931 will deal comprehensively with the revision of the Bengal Municipal Act

The names of the following Chairmen, Vice-Chairmen and Municipal Commissioners have been brought to the notice of Government on account of good work done by them and the Government of Bengal, Ministry of Local Self-Government, desire to express their appreciation of the public spirit shown by these gentlemen —

CALCUTTA, THE 10TH MARCH 1932

RESOLUTION—No 972M

Minister-in-charge: The Hon'ble Mr. Bijoy Prasad Singh Roy.

READ—

The reports on the operations of the Calcutta Improvement Trust, 1926-27, 1927-28, 1928-29, 1929-30 and 1930-31

The operations of the Calcutta Improvement Trust were last reviewed by Government in a Resolution published in November 1926 covering the five years from 1921-22 to 1925-26 The present Resolution deals with the further progress of the Trust during the last five years The salient features of the Trust's operations during this period may be summarised as follows:—

(1) Construction of the main central route from north to south of the city.

(2) Construction of an east and west route from Strand Road to Maniktala

(3) Improvement of the Ballygunge-Chetla area on the south of Calcutta

(4) Improvement of the area beyond Park Street on the east of Calcutta.

(5) Provision of open spaces

(6) Assistance in construction of the bridges over the Circular Canal and Tolly's Nullah

The work of the Trust which has probably most impressed the public imagination is the construction of the main central road from south to north now known as Chittaranjan Avenue By the end of 1925 it had been carried from Chowringhee to Beadon Street During the period under review the Trust framed two schemes for its continuation northwards, one for the section from Beadon Street to Grey Street, and the other for the section from Grey Street to Shambazar Street Both schemes were sanctioned by Government and land acquisition proceedings were in progress during the last year of the quinquennium Preliminary steps were also taken for the construction of an 84 ft. road from Chittaranjan Avenue to Shambazar.

Provision for east and west traffic through the centre of the town has been made by the construction of an 84 ft road running from

Strand Road to Upper Circular Road. This has now been opened to traffic from Chitpore Road to Circular Road, and the section from Chitpore Road to Strand Road will shortly be completed. A concrete surface has been laid down in the length from Chittaranjan Avenue to Cornwallis Street. The remainder has not yet consolidated sufficiently to allow a permanent surface to be laid.

The big scheme for a main road joining Chetla with Ballygunge Railway Station has been completed by the Trust, though the Corporation have not yet begun the construction of the bridge across Tolly's Nullah which is a necessary link, if full advantage is to be taken of the new road. The building plots in this scheme proved most attractive and found a ready market, and the area is now a populous residential suburb. A considerable number of the plots were sold at reduced prices and on easy terms to persons whose houses had been acquired by the Trust for the execution of other schemes.

The Park Street and Theatre Road Extension Scheme including the Eastern Park has been completed. This park has an area of 65 bighas in a portion of which two football grounds and six tennis courts have been provided. A scheme for the improvement of the area lying between this scheme and Ballygunge and for the construction of a 100 ft road connecting Old Ballygunge Road and Park Street was also carried to completion.

Other important schemes on which the Trust was engaged include the widening of Moti Seal Street and its extension to Dharamtala Street and the construction of a 60 ft road from Durponarain Tagore Street to Pathuriaghata Street.

Up to March 1931 the Trust had taken in hand 57·49 miles of road of which 54 91 miles have been completed, of which 13 58 miles are of 80 ft width and over. An improvement effected by the Improvement Trust during the last five years which has met with spontaneous appreciation, has been the excavation of the large artificial lake on the south of Calcutta with its islands and surrounding pleasure grounds. In all the Trust has provided over 23 open spaces with a total area of 773 24 bighas. Of these the Lake area covering 412 bighas of land, the Eastern Park with an area of 65 bighas, and the Cossipore-Chitpore Open Space with an area of 156 bighas have not yet been handed over to the Corporation.

During the period under review an agreement was arrived at between Government, the Corporation and the Trust for the construction of six bridges over the Circular Canal and Tolly's Nullah, the cost being borne by the three authorities in the proportion of 50, 20 and 30 per cent respectively. The Maniktala, Narkeldanga and Beliaghata bridges have been completed and opened to traffic, the Alipore bridge is under construction and the tenders for the Chitpore bridge have been submitted to Government for their orders. Preliminary work for the reconstruction of the bridge over Tolly's Nullah on Tollygunge Circular Road has been taken in hand.

Since the Trust began its operations in 1912, it has spent Rs 9,56,19,500 on the acquisition of land including buildings, and Rs 2,28,48,600 on engineering works. It has realised Rs 4,92,81,400 from the sale of surplus land and buildings and its receipts from exemption fees under section 78 of the Act amount to Rs 45,47,200. In the 19 years of the Trust's existence the net cost of the reconstruction of large areas of Calcutta as a nobler and healthier city has been less than seven crores. While against this net capital expenditure is to be set off the increase in the rateable values directly attributable to the operations of the Trust and the no less material access of wealth derived from improved communications and diminution of disease

When last reviewing the work of the Trust the Governor in Council referred to the difficulties with which it was faced in taking up the improvement of Bara Bazar, and expressed his readiness to give the most careful consideration to any reasonable proposal for the amendment of the law which the Trust might submit. In April 1926 the Board of Trustees appointed a special committee to advise what additional legal powers, if any, the Trust required to facilitate the improvement of Bara Bazar The Committee found that the existing powers of acquisition and exemption were inadequate for the improvement of a closely-built-over area such as Bara Bazar, where, should exemption not be claimed, it is beyond the financial capacity of the Trust to lock up capital in acquiring large blocks of valuable house property They, therefore, recommended that a Bill should be framed empowering the Trust to levy a betterment fee from property the value of which has increased by the operations of the Trust, in lieu of proceeding to acquisition with the alternative of exemption The recommendations of the Committee were accepted by the Board and by Government and a Bill to give effect to them was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council in February 1929 A Bill was drafted on these lines and passed into law in July 1931 The Act provides for the levy of a betterment fee calculated at 50 per cent of the difference between the value of the land on the completion of the execution of the scheme estimated as if the land were clear of buildings and the value of the land prior to the execution of the scheme estimated in like manner The betterment fee will be assessed in the first instance by the Improvement Trust, and, in the event of this assessment not being accepted, the matter will be referred to two arbitrators These two arbitrators will be chosen from a panel constituted by the Local Government in two parts, the first part being composed of persons having special knowledge of the valuation of land and the second part of other suitable persons One arbitrator will be selected from one part of the panel at a meeting of persons who have dissented from the assessment made by the Board, while the other will be appointed by the Local Government from the other part of the panel The Act further provides for the selection of a third arbitrator by lot in the event of difference of opinion between the two arbitrators Consequential provisions are made in the Act, and it is laid down that the imposition of the betterment fee is not to preclude the acquisition of property under the existing powers of the Improvement Trust, should the property be required for the purposes of the Act During the period under review the necessity for this measure was clearly demonstrated by the experience of the Board in carrying out a small scheme for the improvement of the Maidapati area in Bara Bazar The cost of land acquisition amounted by 31st March 1931 to Rs 32,65,000, though the area acquired was only 2¾ acres

At the beginning of the quinquennium the finances of the Trust were still adversely affected by the results of the land boom of 1920-21 which sent up the cost of acquisition, and of the subsequent slump which made it difficult for the Trust to dispose of its holdings of surplus land The property market, however, gradually improved and the receipts from the sale of land rose from Rs 26,50,000 in 1926-27 to Rs 38,14,000 in 1929-30. Other heads of receipt also showed substantial increases The duty on jute yielded Rs 14,31,000 in 1929-30 against Rs 10,84,000 in 1926-27, and the municipal contribution increased from Rs 17,02,000 to Rs 18,66,000. In view of this improvement in its financial position, the Trust was able to raise its capital expenditure from Rs 55,76,000 in 1926-27 to Rs. 78,05,000 in 1929-30 By 1930-31, however, the effects of the general depression began to make themselves felt The total revenue from taxation fell from Rs 22,20,000 in the previous year to Rs 18,43,000, the most serious decrease being in the jute tax, the receipts from which declined from Rs 14,31,000 to Rs 10,89,000 Receipts from the sale of land amounted to Rs 38,67,000, but the bulk of this was received in the early part of the year. In the latter part there was a marked falling off in the demand for the more valuable land in the centre of the town, though the demand for sites for residential buildings in the suburbs was maintained. Capital expenditure in 1930-31 fell to the low figure of Rs 43,72,000 mainly on account of the fact that owing to several transfers the Land Acquisition Collectors were only able to spend Rs 33,19,000 against the budget provision of Rs 60 lakhs made by the Board The failure to spend up to the budget allotment is regrettable, but the transfers were unavoidable, and the savings have at least served to ease the position during the current year, when the full effects of the general depression are making themselves felt A curtailment of the Trust's expenditure will be unavoidable while present conditions continue, but its financial position is sound, and as soon as the economic situation improves and money can be borrowed on easier terms, it will be in a position to resume its full programme of expenditure

During the period under review the Chairmanship of the Calcutta Improvement Trust has been held by Mr S. W. Goode, C I E , I.C S , from 4th February 1926 to 21st October 1926, by Mr Marr from 22nd October 1926 to 6th September 1927, by Mr Atkins from 7th September 1927 to 23rd October 1927, by Mr J A L Swan from 24th October 1927 to 19th February 1930, by Mr Goode from 20th February to 9th October 1930, and since then by Mr. Swan, and the Minister desires to express his recognition of the services rendered by these successive Chairmen in directing the affairs of the Calcutta Improvement Trust Their invariable tact and fairness have done much to build up an atmosphere of public confidence and support which have largely contributed to these results With the Chairmanship of Mr Swan, which extends over the greater part of these five years, the Trust have had the good fortune to continue the tradition of prolonged holding of this office which marked its earlier years, and which is so essential to continuity of purpose and uniformity of principle in the operations of an authority of this nature, and the Minister desires to take this opportunity of congratulating Mr. Swan on the results of his administration At the same time the Minister has much pleasure in referring to the valuable services rendered by Mr M R Atkins, Chief Engineer, since February 1920, and Mr C V Hingston, Chief Valuer, since October 1919, who have acquired unrivalled experience in the problems of town improvement in the East and given effect with such success to the policy of the Board

RESOLUTION—No. 3947For

Read—

The Annual Progress Report on Forest Administration in the Presidency of Bengal for the year ending the 31st March 1931

Read also—

The reports of the previous three years and the Government resolutions thereon

Mr E O Shebbeare was in charge of the Northern Circle during the year, except for about seven months and a half, when, during his absence on leave, Messrs A K Glasson and W Meiklejohn (from Assam) held charge Mr Jeston Homfray held charge of the Southern Circle till the 12th February 1931 when he proceeded on leave, and Mr A K Glasson held charge of the Circle till the 6th March 1931, when he was relieved by Mr J H Lyall

2 Area.—The area of reserved forest increased from 6,465 to 6,506 square miles The increase was in the Chittagong and Cox's Bazar Divisions The area of protected forests remained unaltered The area of unclassed forests also remained unaltered The total area of forests thus increased from 10,583 to 10,621 square miles and formed 13 83 per cent of the total area of the Presidency against 13 77 per cent of the previous year

In the Northern Circle, no new reservations were made during the year Notifications under section 20 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927, were gazetted in the case of 45 blocks comprising an area of 52 square miles The boundary between the Cinchona and Forest Departments, about 19 miles in length, was finally demarcated in the Northern Circle and this boundary will, in future, be maintained by the Cinchona Department During the year, 149 miles of exterior boundaries were demarcated, viz, 117 miles in the Chittagong and 32 miles in the Cox's Bazar Division The survey of the Tipura State was undertaken by the Survey of India to settle the dispute with the Tipura State about the boundary of the Maini head-water reserve in the Chittagong Hill Tracts Only triangulation was done during the year

The Survey of India surveyed about 244 square miles of reserved forests in the Darjeeling, Kalimpong and Kurseong Divisions

Owing to the financial stringency, only Rs 12,000 was spent on construction of roads and bridges against Rs 38,740 in the previous year The total expenditure incurred on the construction of new buildings was Rs 25,636 against Rs 66,000 in the previous year The cost of repairs to buildings was Rs 43,160 against Rs 34,798 in 1929-30

3 Working Plans.—The fourth working plan of the Jalpaiguri Division which was under printing in the previous year was sanctioned by Government towards the close of the year The working plans for the Darjeeling and Buxa Divisions were under printing during the year That of the Kurseong Division was finally drafted and was ready for printing The revised working plan for the forests of the Sundarbans Division was submitted to Government after the close of the year

The area taken up for regeneration by natural and artificial methods still falls short of the prescriptions of working plans and is due to—

(a) shortage of funds,

(b) fall in market demand reducing the clear felled areas, and

(c) want of roads or mechanical methods of extraction

4 Utilisation.—Departmental operations were carried out in the Kurseong and Jalpaiguri Divisions on a smaller scale than usual, due to the dulness of the market and lack of demand Buxa Division showed certain improvement as the timber extracted departmentally amounted to 16·8 per cent of the total outturn against 9·1 per cent of the previous year owing to the larger supply of sleepers to the railways These divisions continued to supply sleepers to the Sleeper Control Officer, Eastern Group.

The total quantity of sal logs dealt with in the Band Sawmill at Siliguri, which has been working since 1926, was larger than that in 1929-30 The cost of sawing per cubic foot of sawn timber was lower as compared with that of the previous year, but the gross revenue collected on the mill account was Rs. 67,738 against Rs 1,10,759 in the previous year The profit on the year's working was Rs 6,378 against Rs 15,438 in 1929-30 The decrease in revenue and also in the net profit is mainly due to the lack of demand in consequence of the general depression in trade

5 The Jalpaiguri Timber and Lead Mills Company, Limited, which had been granted lease of forest lands for extraction of timber at concession rates, ceased to work, and sold their plants and machinery, except the plant for supply of water, to a private firm and the amount outstanding against them (Rs 11,565) was realised during the year After the close of the year, Government purchased from the Company for Rs 5,000, the waterworks plant and machinery to ensure the supply of good water to the Forest Department staff at Rajabhatkhawa This has resulted in a saving of Rs 1,800 per year, which was payable to the company as rent for the supply of water to the staff

6. The Kasalong reserve in the Chittagong Hill Tracts was open to the public for the extraction of bamboos As the royalty realised was less than the minimum royalty of Rs 10,000 payable by the India Paper Pulp Company, Limited, in accordance with the terms of supplementary agreement executed by them with Government, they had to pay the difference to make up the minimum

7 Natural calamities.—A cyclone passed over the eastern half of the Jalpaiguri Division and caused considerable damage to the forest Several small landslips occurred in the hills in the Northern Circle and they are attributed to the loosening of rocks by the earthquake of 3rd July 1930.

8 Outturn, revenue and expenditure.—There was a further fall in the outturn of different kinds of forest produce The revenue, expenditure and surplus decreased during the year, compared with the previous year, as shown below.—

Year	Revenue	Expenditure	Surplus
	Rs	Rs	Rs
1929-30	30,52,078	16,64,606	13,87,472
1930-31	23,12,049	15,93,037	7,19,012

All divisions except Darjeeling, Chittagong and Cox's Bazar showed decrease, which was mainly due to the economic distress and worldwide trade depression The decrease in the total capital and ordinary expenditure was due to the curtailment of expenditure on account of the financial position

9 The total value of the sales of forest produce during the year amounted to Rs 18,07,827 against Rs 21,40,228 of the previous year, showing a decrease in sale of over Rs 3,32,000 The value of forest produce granted free of royalty was Rs. 55,317 against Rs 56,000 of the previous year These grants were made in accordance with the orders issued during the year laying down the purposes for which Conservators of Forests and Divisional Forest Officers have been authorised to grant forest produce free of royalty

10 Minor forest produce continued to be disposed of under permits at schedule rates The total value of the outturn from this source amounted to Rs 5,59,110 against Rs 5,36,237 in the previous year

Two rhinoceros horns were collected in the Buxa Division but could not be disposed of during the year Certain quantities of ritha (Sapindus emarginatus), amlaki (Albizzia stipulata), bahera (Terminalia belerica) and haritaki (Terminalia citrina) were collected in the above division during the year as an experiment with a view to creating a market for them

11 The total outstanding revenue at the close of the year was Rs 3,11,051 against Rs 3,97,646 in 1929-30 Although the Northern Circle showed much improvement, the outstandings in the Southern Circle at the close of the year, increased The largest arrear was in the Sundarbans Forest Division and was due to the delay in payment of instalments on sales of timber. Delay in payment is unavoidable in a year of financial stringency as at present, but every endeavour should be made to bring down the outstanding at the end of the year to the lowest sum possible.

12. The total number of elephants on the stock list in the two circles at the close of the year was the same as that of the last year, viz., twenty-seven and included three calves

In the Northern Circle, four men were killed by tigers and other wild animals In addition, one man was badly mauled by a bear and a Forest Guard was also seriously wounded by a boar. In the Sundarbans Division of the Southern Circle, eight men were killed by tigers, as compared with four in 1929-30 In addition, one person was killed by a crocodile Rogue elephants killed six men, tigers five and a bison killed one man in other divisions In addition to these, five elephants are reported to have been killed illicitly in the Cox's Bazar Division. Rupees 400 was paid as rewards for killing three tigers, Rs. 415 was also paid as rewards by the Collectors of the 24-Parganas and Khulna for killing tigers and leopards outside the Sundarbans Forest Division The number of permits issued for shooting deer in the Sundarbans rose from 157 in 1929-30 to 161 during the year

13 The cost of maintaining the launches and flats in the above division also rose from Rs 52,630 in 1929-30 to Rs 55,005 in the year under review

The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to Messrs Shebbeare, Homfray and Lyall for their successful administration of the Forest Circles and also to Messrs Glasson and Meiklejohn who officiated as the Conservator of Forests, Northern Circle, during the year His Excellency in Council also notices with pleasure the record of good work done by other officers of the department mentioned in the report

Order —Ordered that the above resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette

Ordered also that a copy of the above resolution be forwarded to the Conservators of Forests, Northern and Southern Circles, Bengal

(ii) within six feet on either side of any such prescribed hut alignment, as the case may be

[Cf U. P. Act II of 1916, s. 225 (1), B. & O. Act VII of 1922, s. 229.]

Power to prohibit use of polluted water for drinking or culinary purposes

335. If the Commissioners at a meeting after due inquiry are satisfied that the water of any tank, well, spring or water-course, or part thereof or other place, used or likely to be used for drinking or culinary purposes, is, if so used, liable to engender or cause the spread of disease, and that owing to its situation or other cause such place cannot effectively be protected from pollution, or if the owner of, or person having control over, any such place refuses or neglects to comply with a requisition of the Commissioners under section 334, the Commissioners may— [Cf B. & O. Act VII of 1922, s. 230.]

(b) prescribe a scale of fees to be paid by the Commissioners for the analysis which shall be made of the aforementioned samples under the direction of the Director of Public Health

(2) Where any tank, well, spring or water-course or other source of supply is not within the control of the Commissioners, they shall nevertheless have full power to take water in such manner as they may think proper from any of the above sources of supply for the purpose of furnishing samples to the Director of Public Health

Application for analysis by Public Analyst of water for domestic purposes.

338. Provided that if the Commissioners are of opinion for reasons to be stated in writing that any representation made under this section is frivolous or vexatious, they may, before forwarding a sample of the water to the Public Analyst, require the persons making the representation to deposit the cost of the analysis, which shall be refunded in the event of the Public Analyst granting the certificate referred to in this section

Fees for analysis of water

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Introductory.

The Bengal Municipal Act (III of 1884) has been in force for nearly 50 years, and though still wide enough in its scope to meet the needs of many towns in Bengal, the Act naturally fails to reflect or provide for several new developments in municipal administration which merit the attention of even petty municipalities It is true that there is a wide gulf between the needs and still more the resources of small communities, such as Rajpur, Taki or Baduria and of urban areas such as Howrah. Darjeeling or Dacca and the elaborate provisions, which the latter require, may appear incongruous with the realities of many semi-rural municipalities The Decentralization Commission indeed proposed that "a number of petty municipalities which will not be fit to exercise the large powers" suggested for municipalities in general might be placed under local committees styled town panchayets (as distinguished from village boards or unions) and be "administered as embryonic municipalities, subject to such portions of the provincial Municipal Acts as the Local Government may, in each case, see fit to extend to them "

There is, however, in Bengal a widespread reluctance to surrender the form of municipal government where it already exists, and after careful consideration Government are of opinion that no harm is likely to ensue—whether by abuse of powers or through inability to adapt to semi-rural conditions a too elaborate machinery —if a modern Municipal Act is placed in operation in all areas which at present enjoy a municipal constitution

The gradual elaboration of the Village Self-Government Act will enable it to meet the needs of growing non-municipal villages for some years to come, while the present Bill restricts the operation of certain provisions to more advanced municipalities notified in this behalf and enables (clause 12) the Local Government to except a municipality or a part of it from the operation of any other provisions which appear unsuited to the circumstances of such municipality

The somewhat inconvenient arrangement of the present Act, whereby the provisions regarding the constitution, procedure and various simple measures of sanitation and improvement apply to all municipalities, while other parts containing important administrative provisions apply when expressly extended, had its basis in the existence of the four diverse types or rather grades of municipalities which in 1876 were first brought within the scope of a single Act.

Under the present Bill, the main body of the municipal law will automatically apply proprio vigore to all municipalities, and it is merely the elaborate provisions regarding streets, buildings and bustees, which require to be expressly extended This method of treatment enables the draftsman to deal in one chapter with each important phase of municipal administration By the insertion of a special chapter containing those provisions which the special conditions of hill municipalities render necessary, it is possible to repeal the Darjeeling Act (I of 1900) and to avoid the inconvenient inter-leaving of provisions peculiar to Darjeeling with other clauses of the Bill

The case for amendment.

The Local Government in 1905 addressed the Government of India on the subject of the amendment of Act III of 1884 Their proposals for the most part aimed at removing legal difficulties and ambiguities and perfecting the working of existing provisions by the addition of new clauses which experience had shown to be necessary Other proposals were designed to improve the constitution of appellate committees, to delegate to Divisional Commissioners certain powers now vested in the Local Government, to empower riverside municipalities to regulate the traffic of boats within municipal limits, to authorize the levy of a tax on dogs and ricl shaws, to legalize an increase in the rate on holdings for the purpose of guaranteeing interest on capital expended on the construction of light railways or tramways, to justify the expenditure of municipal funds on the construction and maintenance of hostels and finally to introduce a trades and professions tax

It will be seen that these proposals for the most part do not raise issues of the first importance They received the general approval of the Government of India, which, however, referred to the defective character of the Bengal Municipal Act, and suggested that it was preferable "to re-enact the Act as a whole on more modern lines." The Legislative Department (Bengal) strongly supported this suggestion, pointing out that the Act was loosely drawn, that it had been extensively amended by Acts IV of 1894 and II of 1896, slightly amended by Act III of 1886 and Act V of 1897, and partially repealed in six other Acts It was urged that a consolidating Bill instead of an amending Bill should be prepared. This contention has much greater weight in present times

The Bill as now put forward is based on that placed before the Council in 1925 as further revised with the assistance of a departmental Advisory Committee.

Main features of the Bill.

(a) Constitution of municipalities, franchise, etc.

Schedules I and II of the present Act, providing for the appointing by Government of all the Commissioners and of the Chairman, are abolished and the proportion of elected Commissioners—two-thirds of the whole body of Commissioners in the old Act—is increased in the case of the average municipality to three-fourths, while in certain advanced municipalities, named in a schedule of the Bill, the elected proportion is raised to four-fifths

In view of the administrative difficulties which frequently arise in the formation of a new municipality, Government retain power in such cases to nominate all the Commissioners for a period not exceeding one year

To safeguard the rights of minorities under this wide extension of the elective system, Government take power to alter the number of Commissioners to provide specially by rule for the representation of minorities, and in the case of industrial areas to increase the number of nominated Commissioners or to provide for the proper representation of the industry or labour and of other inhabitants not directly connected with the industry by special electoral constituencies in each case

The franchise has been greatly widened, the payment of any sum in respect of municipal rates will qualify for a vote The Local Government have power to fix and modify the minimum amount of other fees and taxes, the payment of which will also qualify for a vote

Members of joint families who hold in severalty property on which they pay rates or taxes in their own name will enjoy a personal vote in addition to the vote which they share jointly with other members of the family and exercise through a selected representative

Provision has been made against the commission of corrupt practices or the using of undue influence, and a special procedure is prescribed for the prompt disposal of election disputes

The provisions regulating the election of a Chairman, the tenure of his office and that of the Vice-Chairman and Commissioners are more precise and detailed than those of the present Act, with the object of preventing such irregularities as now occur

Provision has been made for the election of more than one Vice-Chairman and the appointment of a wholetime Executive Officer for larger municipalities

Commissioners before assuming office are required to make an oath or affirmation of allegiance to the Crown, the oath will not bar any person from attempting by constitutional means to obtain changes in the established order

Statutory recognition is given to the formation of standing committees With an extension of the committee system on these lines, it has been considered unnecessary to retain any provision for ward committees which moreover have not hitherto been formed in many municipalities

(b) Control by Government.

(Chapter XXVII)—By increasing the elective element in municipal boards, Government have abandoned, its old system of "internal control" The popular voice is thereby given greater freedom in the direction of policy and the details of administration At the same time, a very large extension of powers over the property and personal rights of the rate-payers is given to the popular representatives The function of the State is to secure the proper exercise of discretion by the Commissioners without undue interference with the principle of local autonomy, and this can only be effected by vesting Government with adequate powers of "external control."

Section 64 of the present Act provides, in the event of specific default on the part of the Commissioners, for Government appointing the Magistrate to perform at the cost of the municipal fund that duty in which default has been made

Where there is persistent default, Government may under section 65 of the present Act take the extreme step of superseding the Commissioners.

These powers are retained in the Bill (clauses 534 and 538) Experience has, however, shown that it is rather in respect of the management of a particular department than of general administration that the intervention of Government is required and power is therefore taken under clause 535 to place such a department temporarily under Government control instead of having resort to the drastic measure of supersession

It has again been found that serious defects from time to time occur in the management and maintenance of the three primary services of an urban community; viz., drainage or sewerage works, lighting and water-works At present Government can only intervene with the bludgeon of supersession, and it has been considered desirable to take powers (clause 271) to bring important works of this kind under Government control, when the Commissioners—after the fullest inquiry—have been adjudged negligent or inefficient in this part of their duties.

Again clause 537 provides a new and alternative method of intervention, by empowering the Local Government where default, mismanagement or abuse of power is proved, to dissolve the municipal board instead of superseding or suspending its constitution.

The electors are thereby given the opportunity of pronouncing judgment on the outgoing Commissioners, if their verdict is unfavourable, a new board will come into power to rectify the errors of its predecessors, if, on the other hand, the electors desire to dissociate themselves from the action of Government, they may by re-election pass a vote of confidence in the board, which has been dissolved

(c) Municipal finance and taxation.

As already pointed out, the scope or range of municipal action has in recent years been widened and clause 97 enumerates several objects on which the municipal funds may be expended and is rendered elastic by a provision enabling the Commissioners, with the sanction of Government, to add to such objects or purposes from time to time

It is first proposed to abolish the existing tax on person. That tax is difficult to assess, and gives rise to widespread complaints of unfair incidence The rate on holdings is a far more scientific and satisfactory form of taxation, and it is desirable that it should be adopted throughout

The allocation of separate funds (water or lighting funds, etc), to the specific purposes for which they are raised, is maintained, but it is not always practicable to make or keep these funds self-supporting or exactly equal to the expenditure they are required to meet In practice, the special funds are frequently supplemented from the general fund The Bill (clause 100) permits the diversion of a surplus accruing in any fund to another special fund

The cost of capital works and their maintenance is greatly in advance of pre-war charges and, if municipalities are to be improved or even to maintain their existing standards, increased revenue is necessary

The percentages at which the Commissioners may levy holding, water, lighting and conservancy rates have accordingly been raised, while a new tax on trades, professions and callings—on a scale to be fixed by the Commissioners and approved by Government—and a tax on vessels, moored at municipal ghats, have been proposed

The tax on dogs is proposed with a view to check rabies rather than to raise revenue.

Power is taken also to impose at any time any other taxation, which the Commissioners may consider reasonable and which the Local Government and, where necessary, the Governor-General in Council may approve

In clause 113, power is taken to impose a water-rate where a supply is based, e g, on sub-artesian wells with a somewhat restricted distribution system, or a lighting-rate, where, e g, oil-lamps are provided

The latrine, conservancy and drainage services are to be maintained by means of the "conservancy-rate" in place of the sliding scale of latrine fees now in force

The proviso to clause 116 under which the holding-rate on that portion of a valuation, which is in excess of one lakh is to be levied as at present at one-fourth of the ordinary percentage, may cease to operate in advanced municipalities, if the Local Government so direct

The provisions regarding assessment are in some respects elaborated and, it is hoped, are given a more orderly and logical arrangement

For convenience of assessment and collection it is provided in clause 118 that the owners of holdings shall be liable for the payment of the general rate and the three special rates (water, lighting and conservancy)

A further important innovation is the proposal (clause 131) to create a panel of municipal assessors Re-assessment is undoubtedly at present a weak point in some municipalities, and in providing for the creation of a body of independent and impartial assessors, Government are merely adopting a system which has always been in force in the democratic municipalities of Great Britain

With the object again of securing an equitable and satisfactory assessment, it is proposed (clause 135) to place appeals against the assessment before a committee consisting of the Chairman, a municipal Commissioner appointed by his colleagues and a person nominated by the Local Government

The latter can always be outvoted, but if he is well-selected, his views should be of value.

(d) Conservancy, drainage and water-supply.

The Commissioners are given wide powers to enforce the provision for improvement of house-drains, cess-pools, privies and other such appurtenances and to secure the proper drainage of premises.

They are empowered to insist on the owners of private water-supplies cleansing or silt-clearing a tank or well, they may themselves disinfect such supplies and in accordance with rules framed by Government may provide for the regular analysis of water from any municipal or private supply, and they are required on the requisition of two qualified medical practitioners or of ten rate-payers (subject to certain safeguards against frivolous or vexatious applications) to have the water of any supply tested by the Public Analyst

Power is taken also to prohibit wet cultivation where it is likely to be injurious to health or to contaminate a water-supply, and the Commissioners may take steps to secure the eradication of the water-hyacinth or any other noxious plant notified in this behalf.

Important provisions (clause 349, et seq) are also introduced for dealing with insanitary buildings and overcrowding

(e) Water-supply, lighting and drainage systems.

A statutory obligation is laid on the Commissioners (clause 264) to provide a sufficient water-supply, a sufficient drainage and conservancy system and proper lighting

Apart from their more general powers of intervention in the case of default, the Local Government, after giving the Commissioners the fullest hearing, are empowered to enforce the provision of these primary needs (clause 268) and for this purpose to direct that any rate or rates authorized under the Act shall be levied or increased but not so as to exceed any maximum prescribed in that behalf Important provisions are also introduced regulating in some detail the regulations of the Commissioners, vis-à-vis the individual, as regards—

(i) the laying of pipes, etc , through private premises,

(ii) connecting such premises with municipal sewers or mains,

(iii) the metering of premises,

(iv) the free or excess supply of water, and

(v) power to cut off the supply of water

(f) Streets, buildings and bustees.

The elaborate provisions, which are required to secure the proper development of a town by means of wide and well-planned streets, would be inappropriate for many existing municipalities, and the provisions of the greater portion of Chapter VI will apply only to those towns to which they are expressly extended This chapter gives the Commissioners wide powers in respect of town-planning and adopts the well-tried Calcutta principle of recoupment by means of the acquisition and re-sale, after development, of surplus lands

The liberty of the individual to develop his property by means of narrow inadequate lanes is brought under control

The more drastic provisions of Chapter IX (Buildings) and the building rules, which as Schedule VI form a part of the Bill, apply to those municipalities to which they are expressly extended

The rules, based on those of Madras mufassal municipalities, are by no means too severe or rigorous for important towns, while for other municipalities rules of a more simple type can be framed under clauses 313 and 314

The improvement of insanitary bustees has hitherto—partly owing to defects in the present law—received little attention in mufassal towns

Sections 245, et seq , of the Bengal Municipal Act are hardly less wide in their general import than the corresponding provisions of the Calcutta Municipal Act, but if these provisions are to become effective, it is necessary to lay down in much greater detail the procedure which is to be adopted.

The Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, has therefore been freely drawn on with the object of making more explicit and precise the steps which should be taken for the improvement of insanitary bustees.

(g) Restraint of infection, child-welfare and school hygiene.

The compulsory notification of certain specified infectious diseases (vide the definition of "dangerous disease") is proposed. The Commissioners are made responsible for the disinfection of infected buildings, conveyances, clothing, bedding and other articles, while persons suffering from certain diseases to be notified in this behalf are forbidden to deal in food-stuffs or wash clothes for the public. It may be assumed that leprosy would in the first instance be so notified.

The Commissioners are given power—subject to an appeal to the Magistrate or Commissioner—to direct that a school shall be closed or any scholars temporarily excluded therefrom, with a view to preventing the spread of disease

It is proposed to give a similar power in respect of markets

The Commissioners are expressly given power to provide midwives and to employ health visitors for the promotion of child-welfare, while the importance of the sanitary inspection of schools and of school hygiene generally is definitely recognized

(h) Markets and slaughter-houses, sale of food and drugs and milk-supply.

The present Act provides inadequately for the regulation of private markets, and it is therefore proposed that the Commissioners should be given wider powers to enforce the improvement of such markets in respect of such matters as paving, drainage, passages and sanitary conveniences

Provisions are introduced in the Bill for securing the use of standard weights and measures in municipalities to which such provisions have been expressly extended

The better regulation of food-stuffs is desirable and power is taken for licensing certain trades, such as those of a sweetmeat vendor, baker, dairyman, etc

The provisions for the inspection and seizure of unwholesome foods and drugs are amplified

A safeguard is provided by requiring a Magistrate's order for the destruction of such articles

Many municipalities are anxious to take measures for the improvement of the milk-supply At the same time, few municipalities are at present in a position to enforce adequate control, and it has therefore been decided that instead of enacting elaborate substantive provisions on this behalf the Commissioners should be given wide powers to frame by-laws for the registration of dairymen and dairies, for the inspection and regulation of dairies and generally for securing and maintaining the purity of the milk-supply (clause 418)

(i) Registration of births and deaths.

The registration of vital statistics, which enables the public health expert to lay his finger on the weak spots of municipal administration, has hitherto not received sufficient attention It is proposed to make the local registrar of births and deaths to some extent independent of the Commissioners by safeguarding him from punishment by the Commissioners except with the consent of the Local Government and also to empower him to institute proceedings against defaulters The Commissioners will, however, be responsible for his salary

(j) Nuisances (clause 433).

It has been considered necessary to state in great detail what is to be deemed a "nuisance." The inspection and abatement of nuisances is the key-stone of a sound and efficient public health department and for the education of public opinion, the guidance of the Commissioners and as a clear direction to the courts, it appears desirable to adopt the custom of English draftsmen by incorporating in the Bill an exhaustive or at least a comprehensive description of "nuisance," and by providing a more detailed form of procedure for the remedy of the same

(k) Education.

The constitution of an Education Committee is made statutory. It could be appointed as one of the standing committees, but the subject is of sufficient importance to demand prominence in a comprehensive statute of this kind

Where no education cess is levied under Act IV of 1919, the Local Government is empowered (clause 442) by general or special order to prescribe a percentage of the municipal income (exclusive however of the three chief special rates) to be applied to the promotion of primary education in any municipality.

General Remarks.

Every change of importance which it is proposed to make in the existing law is explained in detail in the subjoined Notes on Clauses, since it is desired in a measure of this magnitude to give the Council the fullest possible assistance in its consideration A table has also been prepared and annexed to the Bill showing which provisions of the existing Act are omitted from the Bill, and indicating where those provisions of the present Act, which have been retained, are reproduced in the Bill

It can hardly be denied that the division of the Bill into chapters dealing with distinct subjects will prove more convenient than the arrangement of the present Act, and it is believed that the insertion in each chapter of clauses empowering the Local Government or the Commissioners in meeting to make rules or by-laws will enable the Commissioners readily to realize the exact extent to which the Bill, as occasion demands, can be supplemented and amplified by the sub-legislation of rule and by-law

It may be urged that having regard to the limited resources of many municipalities, the Bill is overloaded and unduly elaborated

It deals, however, with no phase of municipal activity which is not already a commonplace of municipal administration in England, and, where any chapter is at present beyond the scope of a particular town, it still, though it may remain for some years a dead letter, possesses educative value and marks a goal, at which the body corporate, at a later stage, may easily aspire

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Chapter I.

Clause 2 has been revised in view of the provisions of the Bengal General Clauses Act, 1899

Clause 3—The definitions have been generally revised on the lines of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, where applicable to mufassil conditions, and new definitions have been inserted where necessary The definitions applicable to hill districts have been removed to Chapter XXIII so as to make the general portion of the Bill self-contained Points in regard to the definitions are as follows —

(2) "Building" A definition of the term "building" has been inserted, as the absence of a suitable definition has given rise to much difficulty in the part in interpreting the law The definition is based on section 3 (s) of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, and section 3 (7) of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923

(3) "Building-line" This definition has been inserted for the purposes of Chapter VI of the Bill The wording of section 206 of the existing Act is defective and not in any way precise

(5) The definition of "carriage" has been made clearer, the words "ordinarily drawn by animals" in the existing definition having given rise to complications It excludes motor vehicles

(8) "Conservancy" It is desirable for the purposes of the conservancy rate to bring together under one term the various services in connection with latrines, scavenging and sewage

(15) & (17) "Framed building" The term applies to buildings in hill municipalities As in the existing definition, most huts might be regarded as "framed buildings" to which the provisions for the improvement of bustees could not be applied An attempt is made in clause 5 to remove this difficulty by giving power to the Commissioners to decide in case of doubt whether a building is a hut, framed building or a masonry building

(21) "Holding" The reference to the tax on persons contained in the definition, as set forth in the existing Act, has been omitted, as it is not proposed to continue the tax on persons

(24) The definition of "hut" has been made more general owing to the varying conditions prevailing in mufassil municipalities

(25) "Inhabitant." A definition of "inhabitant" has been inserted especially for the purposes of the clauses relating to public health

(28) "Living thing" A definition of "living thing" has been inserted for conciseness The English Acts which relate to food and markets contain a succession of references to animals, fish, game, poultry, etc, which add materially to the length of the Statute Book

(29) "Lodging-house." A definition has been inserted in order to ensure the better regulation of lodging-houses for the poorer classes Clause 445 may be compared in this connection.

The definition is made more restricted than in the case of the Puri Lodging-houses Act.

(32) "Motor vehicle " The definition in the Motor Vehicles Act, 1914 is adopted (36) "Occupier" The Calcutta definition is adopted.

(38) "Owner " The definition contained in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, is adopted in preference to the definition contained in section 6 (11) of the existing Act The position and liability of trustees are provided for in the body of the Act (vide clause 515) Provision is made for the inclusion in the term of persons who have rent-free tenants.

(40) "Premises." A wide definition is desirable, specially for the purposes of the clauses relating to public health.

(43) "Private street." As this Bill deals with municipalities, it has been considered advisable to eliminate the word "road" which occurs together with the word "street" in the present Act. The word "road" is now used in the present Bill only in connection with hill municipalities.

(52) "Street alignment " The definition contained in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, is inserted for the purposes of Chapter VI The present Act is entirely defective in its provisions relating to projected public streets

(56) "Water for domestic purposes" The provisions of the existing section 288 are incorporated in the definition and amplified in view of municipal progress

(57) "Water-works" A comprehensive definition of "water-works" has been introduced on the lines of the United Provinces Act owing to the more detailed provisions of the present Act in relation to water-supply

Clause 4 is an interpretation clause based partly on the United Provinces Act, and framed with a view to securing all reasonable latitude to the Commissioners in making requisitions in the exercise of their powers under this Act

Clause 5 has been inserted to prevent unnecessary litigation

Chapter II.

Clause 6—A special power has been taken to include railway areas within municipal areas, a safeguard to railway administrations being provided in clause 17 so as to secure their proper representation on the municipality and to enable the Local Government when necessary, of their own motion to alter the number of Commissioners of a municipality.

Clauses 10 and 11 have been inserted to fill a gap in the existing law, the point having been raised as to whether new notifications, rules and by-laws are necessary when changes are made in the municipal area.

Chapter III.

Clauses 14 to 17—The principles underlying these clauses are explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons.

Clauses 18 and 19—These clauses embody in the law certain basic principles as to the preparation of the electoral roll

Clause 20—The provisions of this clause relating to disqualification are substantially based on those contained in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923 The existing Act only provides for removal after election or appointment, which means a fresh election and more expense

Clause 21—The principles underlying this clause are dealt with in the Statement of Objects and Reasons.

Clauses 22 to 41 set forth in much greater detail than was formerly the case the procedure in regard to the elections of municipal Commissioners. These matters were formerly left to rules under section 15 The new clauses relating to election offences, and in particular the clauses relating to corrupt practices, are based in the main on the Madras Act Provision has been made in clause 24 for all elections to be held by ballot, and the definition of corrupt practices in clause 26 has been amplified so as to cover cases of unfair pressure on electors, such as has occurred of late at certain elections. Clauses 33 to 40 deal with the decision of election disputes and follow in the main the provisions at present in force in Bombay

Clause 40 has been inserted to minimise the present somewhat frequent interference by the courts with the working of municipalities by means of temporary injunctions obtained by disappointed candidates.

Clause 41 confers a wide rule-making power in regard to the details of elections. This power is not however so wide as at present, the most salient provisions in regard to the electoral roll and voting by ballot having been embodied in the text of the Bill.

Clause 42—The provisions as to the election of the Chairman contained in sections 23 and 59 of the existing Act have been gathered together, the new draft having been taken partly from the Bihar and Orissa Act This draft has however been amplified so as to avoid a lacuna between the election of a Chairman and the approval of the appointment by the Government. All the provisions contained in this and the subsequent clauses as to the election or appointment of Chairman are modified to meet the new constitution provided in the Bill.

Clause 45 provides for the appointment of a second Vice-Chairman in municipalities where the number of Commissioners exceeds twelve and of a third Vice-Chairman where the number of Commissioners exceeds twenty

Clause 46 provides for the decision by the Local Government of disputes relating to the elections of Chairman and Vice-Chairman, which disputes at present cause dislocation of work when under reference to the law courts

Clause 48—The general powers of the Chairman to act on behalf of the Commissioners have been more specifically defined, so as to cover cases under other Acts where powers, allied to those conferred by this Act, are vested in the local authority, i e, the Commissioners Power has been taken to delegate to the Executive Officer powers of the Commissioners

Clause 49—The principles of delegation of powers by the Chairman to the Vice-Chairman are applied also to the delegation of powers by the Chairman to certain expert officers of the municipality, a general control at the same time being maintained

Clause 50—The duties of the Vice-Chairman have been defined on the lines of the United Provinces Act.

Clause 51 while dealing with the leave of the Chairman and Vice-Chairman enables the Local Government to declare the office of either the Chairman or Vice-Chairman vacant in the event of overstayal of leave The existing Act is silent on this point

Clause 52 combines provisions contained in existing sections 14, 21, 24, 25 and 26, and brings together the law as to tenure of office

Clause 53—It is proposed that the Commissioners shall make an oath or affirmation of allegiance to the King-Emperor The proposed form of oath or affirmation is partly based on the form of oath or affirmation made by the Members of the local Legislature Attention is invited to the explanation appended to this clause

Clause 54 is based on section 27 of the existing Act An omission is supplied by a detailed provision as to the treatment of vacancies caused by elections being declared void

Clause 55 has been inserted to avoid a difficulty which has been experienced in regard to the conduct of the first meeting after a general election, and to avoid a lacuna that might otherwise occur if the Commissioners request the Local Government to appoint a Chairman

Clause 56—The procedure for the resignation of a Chairman contained in section 27A has been modified An elected Chairman may resign under the Bill by informing the Commissioners in writing An appointed Chairman must notify the Local Government, which appoints him, instead of the Commissioner of the Division as formerly

Clause 58—The power of removal is taken away from the Commissioner of the Division and given to the Local Government

The wording of clause (a) has been modified from that of the present clause (a) of section 20 (1) to fall in with accepted modern standards

Sub-clause (2) (b) is consequential on clause 53.

Sub-clause (2) (d) is inserted to prevent Commissioners acting in their private capacity against the municipality in the law courts

This clause has been generally amplified, and has been made to cover part of the existing section 57

Clause 59 has been amplified to make the provisions of clause 58 more safe.

Clause 60—Power has been taken for payment of travelling allowances to Chairman, etc, from the Municipal Fund.

Clauses 62 to 71 confer on the Commissioners powers in regard to the appointment of their establishments considerably larger than those conferred by the present Act. The control of the Divisional Commissioner in regard to this matter is practically eliminated except in regard to the decision of the question as to whether an officer of the municipality has become seriously indebted. At the same time the tenure of office of superior expert officers is made more secure in the same manner as in the Madras Act. The Local Government is given power to insist, where necessary, on the appointment of an expert officer for sanitary or other purposes even in the case of a small municipality In large municipalities Local Government can require the appointment of an Executive Officer. Power has been taken to enable the municipality to arrange for a provident fund combined with a system of bonuses on the principles which are in force in certain railway administrations, this being a strong inducement to employees to continue in service for a long period

In the case of officers specified in section 63 (1), the Local Governmnet has been empowered to fix certain essential qualifications

Clause 64 is based on the provisions of section 52 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923.

Clause 77, sub-clause (3), has been made a little more stringent in order to ensure greater punctuality.

Clause 78—Provision has been made for continuation of the minutes of proceedings at the meeting of the Commissioners when the same is to be signed again by the person presiding

Clause 81—The United Provinces Act has been followed in regard to the provisions for the settlement of disputes without reference to the law courts

Clauses 82 and 83—Provision has been made in these clauses for the appointment of special committees, the members of which need not be all Commissioners This is particularly desirable in regard to such matters as child-welfare, school hygiene, etc

Clause 84—The rule-making power has been somewhat amplified to secure some latitude in regard to changes of procedure which may be found to be necessary in the light of experience

Clause 86—Provision has been made for the preparation and publication of the annual municipal report

Chapter IV.

Clauses 87 to 93 bring together the various provisions of the law in regard to municipal property. The main changes in the existing law are in the direction of making it clear that the municipality may take up land for purposes of recoupment, a necessary provision, in order to enable them to carry out any comprehensive improvement scheme

With reference to the ownership of streets, safeguards have been provided in cases of industrial concerns which maintain water-works, etc, which pass under municipal streets

Clause 94.—The provisions of clauses 94 to 100 bring together the law in regard to the municipal fund in the same manner as that in which the funds of the Corporation are dealt with in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923

Clause 95—As in the case of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, power has been taken to enable municipalities to maintain current and deposit accounts with a bank used as a Government treasury

Clause 96 provides for the usual first charges on the municipal fund.

Clause 97 sets out in detail the various objects on which a municipality may reasonably be called upon to spend its money Greater latitude has been given to the municipality than is at present the case under the existing law New provisions include the following —

Item (viii) (the construction and maintenance of model dwelling-houses), item (xiv) (the prevention of the spread of epidemic diseases), item (xv) (the payment of the expenses of indigent inhabitants who have to be sent away for treatment for rabies, etc.), item (xvi) (the maintenance and improvement of municipal dairy-farms and provision of milk-supply), item (xxvii) (the proper maintenance and preparation of maps and plans), item (xxviii) (the provision of relief in time of famine or natural calamity or scarcity or internal commotion), item (xxix) (the power to contribute to charitable societies aiding in the disposal of unclaimed dead bodies and the dead bodies of paupers) and item (xxxi) (the power to compensate an employee for loss incurred in execution of his duty)

Clause 98 materially enlarges the powers of the Commissioners in regard to areas outside the municipality for the purpose of lighting and water-supply schemes and other essential services, in connection with which it is necessary to carry on work in the non-municipal area A provision is also made for municipal scholarships to deserving residents of the municipality.

Clause 99 enables the Commissioners to take over any institution the affairs of which may most suitably be conducted by them

Clause 100 sets out the restrictions which should be imposed on the expenditure of monies collected for the purposes of the essential services of the municipality It enables the municipalities, subject to any objection by the rate-payers, to amalgamate, with the sanction of the Local Government, the funds required for the three chief services, viz, lighting, water-supply and conservancy, and it safeguards the interests of the rate-payers against any expenditure of such monies except with the approval of the Local Government on general purposes or on these three essential services.

Clauses 101 to 106 materially enlarge the powers of the Commissioners in regard to the budget estimates The limit of expenditure on a particular scheme, which the Commissioners may incur without the previous sanction of the Local Government, has also been raised from Rs 5,000 to Rs 10,000 The power of modification of the budget renders it unnecessary to have a separate procedure as to transfer from one hand to another

Clause 109 provides for proper audit of the municipal fund, the appointment of auditors and the payment of the cost of audit It is proposed that municipalities shall pay the whole or part of this, as they would have to pay a chartered accountant if they were a private concern

Clause 110—As it is proposed that municipalities should have a much greater freedom than formerly in regard to their expenditure and their balances, it is necessary to reserve to the Local Government the power to prescribe the maintenance of an adequate closing balance

Chapter V.

Clause 111—The provisions in regard to municipal taxation are set forth in Chapter V It is proposed, as stated in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, to abolish the tax on persons and to have a more uniform system of taxation than at present obtains in municipalities The dog tax, the tax on advertisements, the tax on trades, professions and callings and the imposition of fees for the grant of licenses are new

Clause 112—The maximum rate on holdings has been raised as explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons

Clause 113—In addition to the provisions contained in the existing Act, a provision has been made for the levy of a water-rate where water is supplied by municipal water-carts or similar agency and a lighting-rate where acetyline lamps are employed The maximum of the water-rate has been raised

Clause 114—The old latrine-rate has been converted into a general conservancy-rate, it being considered desirable that all matters relating to conservancy and sewage shall form part of a connected system

The provisions of sections 325 and 326 of the existing Act have been made more detailed, so as to set forth the liabilities and exemptions of mill owners, etc, who provide their own septic tanks or similar works

Clause 116—Provision is made in this and the succeeding clauses for the entertainment of a more skilled agency than is at present employed in many instances for the assessment of the rate on holdings It is proposed to maintain a panel of qualified municipal assessors from which municipalities may select competent officers whenever the time comes for re-assessment

The clause follows closely the provisions of the existing section 101, but the Local Government is empowered to declare in certain cases that the proviso to sub-section (2), which limits the rating of buildings which have cost more than a lakh of rupees, shall not apply

Clause 117 confers power on the Commissioners to settle doubtful points in regard to assessments without reference to the law courts

Clause 118—An important modification is proposed in regard to the system of rating Under the existing system the latrine tax falls mainly on the occupier. It is now proposed to have a uniform system of rating under which the liability for the lighting, water and conservancy-rates shall fall upon the owner, because the maintenance of the municipal services serves his permanent interest in the holding

Clause 121—The existing section 102 is modified so as to prevent the Commissioners from further jeopardising the municipal finances by lowering the rates at a time when the municipal funds are in an unsatisfactory condition

Clause 122 follows existing section 103, but provision is made for including the names of occupiers in the assessment list

Clause 123 is based on existing section 97, but provides for the continuance of the former assessment until the commencement of a new year after the new assessment lists have been prepared

Clause 124—The provisions for amendments of the assessment list have been grouped together A new provision is made in this clause for the giving of notice to any rate-payer of any alteration which the Commissioners propose to make in the assessment list, whereby he may be affected.

Clause 125 provides that the assessment list shall be conclusive, subject to the rights, conferred by a later clause, of appeal to a special committee.

Clause 127.—A new provision has been made to ensure that remissions made by the Commissioners shall be scrutinised from time to time. This provision exists in the rules of the audit department.

Clause 128—More detailed provisions have been inserted in regard to the remission of rates on account of vacancy. Generally speaking, the principles of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, have been followed in this matter A more generous provision as to remission or refund is inserted in this clause, the former remission of one-half being increased to three-quarters In clause (i) of sub-clause (4) provision is made that a person who keeps a pleasure-house or a second residence within a municipality is not entitled to a remission or refund on account of vacancy

Clause 130—A provision is made for proper notice being given of transfers of property within a municipality The principle of this clause is taken from the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923

Clause 131 provides for the appointment of the panel of assessors

Clause 132 enables the Local Government to see that the municipalities perform their duties in regard to the appointment of qualified men to prepare the assessment lists.

Clause 133 gives a further safeguard to the individual rate-payer by insisting that notice shall be given to him whenever his rates are raised or a new rate is imposed, so as to enable him to put forward his objections, if any, to the appeal committee

Clause 134 while following existing section 113 lays down the time-limit for applications for review of an assessment

Clause 135 provides for the appointment of a special committee, including a person appointed by the Government (who need not be a Commissioner) to decide appeals against the assessment list, instead of these appeals being heard by an appeal committee composed of, and appointed entirely by, the Commissioners

Clause 137 makes the law more specific as to the powers of the Commissioners in regard to the realisation of rates pending an appeal

Clause 139—The drafting of existing section 118 has been slightly revised

Clause 142—The time-limit imposed by the existing Act for the issue of a distress warrant against a defaulter is extended to one year, as the existing limit of three months has been found to be inadequate Otherwise the recovery provisions in clauses 142 to 151 follow substantially the existing law

Clause 152—The purchaser is made liable to any sum due as a rate of a holding purchased by him

Clause 153—The rate due in respect of a holding is made a charge upon that holding and upon certain movable properties within the holding and belonging to the owner It is based on section 205 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923

Clause 154—The list of carriages and animals which are exempted from the carriage tax has been brought up to date, and under clause 155 the Commissioners are given a general power of exempting special classes of carriages or animals from the tax

Clauses 168 and 169 provide for the imposition of a dog tax

Clauses 170 to 178 deal with the imposition of tax on carts. In clause 172 a special provision is made for the higher rate where the carts are of such a description that owing to their narrow tyres and rims they cause undue damage to the surface of the municipal streets

Clauses 179 to 185 repeat with minor modifications the provisions of existing sections 149 to 155 in regard to ferries The present section 148 is no longer necessary in view of the amendments already made in section 35 of the Bengal Ferries Act

Clauses 186 to 192 deal with tolls on bridges It is proposed to discontinue the existing power to levy tolls on roads owing to the unsatisfactory nature of such tolls in themselves and the difficulty of arranging any satisfactory system of collection

Clauses 193 to 201 reproduce with minor modifications and drafting amendments the general provisions of existing sections 164 to 172 in regard to tolls on ferries and bridges New clause 199 gives power to canal lease if higher tolls are realised by the lessee

The provisions contained in clauses 204 to 207 are new They are on the lines of the proposals made in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, and it is especially provided in clause 203 that they shall only be enforced in those municipalities where the state of development is such that, in the opinion of the Local Government, they can profitably be introduced.

It will be noted that the provisions divide themselves into two parts, one for the prescription of the actual width of the street and the other for the proper frontage of buildings facing upon it, and provision for either of these objects can be made separately by the Commissioners according to requirements.

Care has been taken to safeguard existing property, so far as this is compatible with the public requirements. This is secured by the general restrictions relating to building-lines contained in the proviso to sub-clause (1) and in sub-clause (4) of clause 204

Provision in regard to additions to buildings or boundary walls is made in clause 205 so that, where it is proposed to open out a proper street alignment within a municipality, a property owner shall not obstruct the carrying out of that project by indiscriminate building

Power is also taken that, where the prospect of completing the street alignment is not immediate, permission may be given to owners to build within the street alignment subject to the condition of removal, when the project is brought to fruition

Provision is made in clause 206 for taking up vacant lands with a view to street improvements, and in clause 207 for setting forward a building

Clause 208—This clause, as a general clause, gives powers to the Commissioners in regard to public streets, squares and gardens It is self-explanatory.

The provision of open spaces in a municipality is important from the point of view of public health and education, and special provision has therefore been made for this Attention is invited to sub-clause (e) of this clause, whereby the Commissioners are able to put into effect their powers in regard to recoupment by selling off the improved building sites acquired in connection with any scheme of street improvement.

Clause 209 provides for the relinquishment or lease of public streets, squares and gardens which are no longer required by the municipality

Clause 210 deals with projected public streets, and prescribes the minimum width for the same The clause is based on the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923.

Clauses 212 to 216 deal with private streets, the regulation of which is quite insufficiently provided for at present These clauses are also based on the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, and they are designed—

(i) to ensure that property owners shall not develop their property in such a manner as to create an overcrowded and insanitary area, and

(ii) to ensure that private streets, which may later be taken over as public streets, shall conform to the general design of the town instead of being narrow and insanitary lanes, impassable in rainy weather and a resort for bad characters on dark nights The suitable regulation of private streets is essential, as these streets will play a great part in the later development of the town

Special attention is invited to the provisions of clause 215, under which the Commissioners can call on the owners of the land fronting or adjoining or abutting on a private street to put it in decent repair, and to clause 216, under which the persons interested are empowered to take necessary measures for putting their private streets in order and then handing them over to the municipality, thus divesting themselves of the cost of maintenance

Clauses 211 to 231 follow more closely the scheme of the existing Act, being the routine provisions for the protection of existing streets, the proper fencing of excavations and the closing of streets for repairs and to certain classes of traffic, and the time-honoured provisions in regard to verandahs, platforms and such like projections Clause 226, which is based on the United Provinces Act, is designed to prevent people cascading water from their roofs and elsewhere on to the heads of the passers-by

Clause 223—A definite provision is inserted on the same lines as in the United Provinces Act for the licensing of platforms upon or over any public street, this form of encroachment being particularly liable to occur, and otherwise difficult to keep within bounds The fee for the license will not be large, but it is hoped that the provision will ensure proper registration of existing platforms and prevent subsequent increase in their area

Clause 228 also deals with the removal of projections, encroachments and erections, the safeguards contained in the existing Act being maintained in regard to erections of old standing.

Clause 231—Provision is made to empower the Commissioners to stop the indiscriminate use of public streets by hawkers and other like persons.

Chapter VII.

Clause 232—The existing law has been amplified so as to include outfall—and disposal—works

Clauses 234 and 236.—The provisions of existing section 187 have been split up, so as to make it clear that where a rate-payer pays the conservancy-rate, it is for the municipality to remove the sewage, rubbish and offensive matter to the places appointed for its disposal.

Clause 238.—Special provisions have been made for the conservancy of factories and business premises on the lines of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923.

Clause 240.—The wording of existing section 270 is unsatisfactory The municipal sewers are the places into which sewage is to be put and yet the existing section prohibits this The wording has therefore been recast

Clause 241—Special provision has been made for the disposal of carcasses The time for giving notice, which is specified in the United Provinces Act, from which this clause has been taken, has been shortened in the interests of public health

Clause 243 reproduces existing section 193 It is not proposed to re-enact existing section 194 This work should be done through direct municipal agency

Clauses 244 and 245—More detailed provisions than are at present in force have been inserted in regard to the provision of suitable privy accommodation in dwelling-houses and places where workmen are employed The provisions of these clauses are based on those contained in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, and allow for the improved systems introduced by modern sanitary engineering

Clause 246 (read with the penalty clause) renders penal the obstruction, the illicit construction and the destruction of drains, cesspools, etc

Clause 248 clearly defines the powers of the Commissioners to inspect latrines, urinals, cesspools, etc , and makes it clear that they may interfere with the surface of the soil of the premises in which such latrines, urinals, etc , are situated, and cause it to be opened for the purpose of such inspection

Clause 249—The drafting of the United Provinces Act in regard to requisitions relating to cesspools, etc , has been adopted as being preferable to that of the present law in Bengal

Clause 250 enables the Commissioners to open up a way to any privy for the purpose of cleansing it, by requiring the owner to provide a suitable house-gully

Clause 253—Provision has been made to enable the Commissioners to make special scavenging arrangements for fairs, festivals and other large assemblies of people, whether within or in the neighbourhood of the municipality

Clause 254 enables the Commissioners to deal with premises, where there are undue accumulations of filth, etc , by means of a special staff, to be paid for in whole or in part by the owner or occupier of the premises

Clause 255—The powers of the Commissioners to make by-laws in regard to conservancy have been amplified and more clearly defined

Clause 256 defines the powers of the Commissioners in regard to the construction of drains, and clause 257 defines their powers in regard to the alteration and improvement of drains The existing section 197 and generally the provisions of the existing Act are quite inadequate in this connection

Clause 258 defines the rights of the owner or occupier of a building or land to connect his private drains with the municipal drains

Clause 260—The powers which already exist under section 228 of the present Act, as conferred by sub-clause (1) of this clause on the Commissioners for the carrying out of a joint drainage scheme in regard to two or more premises are qualified by the addition of sub-clause (2) which compels the Commissioners to give due notice of the alterations which are about to be made to the owners of the premises affected thereby

Clause 261—The provisions of this clause amplify the provisions of the existing section 227 of the Bengal Municipal Act

Clause 262 introduces the power of the Commissioners to compel owners to construct cesspools and house-drains in cases where it is not possible to connect the house-drainage system with the municipal drains

Clause 263 provides for by-laws relating to drainage

Chapter VIII.

This chapter brings together and amplifies the provisions of the existing Act in regard to systems of drainage, sewerage, lighting and water-supply, and in particular the provisions regulating the construction and maintenance of systems which are joint between municipalities and other local authorities The present provisions as to joint schemes are contained in sections 37A to 37M of the Act in so far as such schemes relate to water-supply or drainage The new Chapter VIII extends the same procedure to joint lighting systems

Clause 265—The reference to electricity under this clause is somewhat more direct than that contained in the present section 319 Sub-clause (2) retains the power to Government to sanction advances in suitable cases to meet the cost of preparing and carrying out lighting or water-supply schemes.

Clause 266 restricts the power given by existing section 37J' to the Local Government to order the execution of a joint scheme by an officer appointed by them.

Clauses 267 and 268 are based on section 37K of the existing Act and are applied also to lighting schemes The procedure, however, is very much shortened, the Local Government under the present Bill being able to prepare a scheme of drainage, sewerage, water-supply, lighting, etc, without a long preliminary negotiation with the Commissioners The subsequent stages are also shortened and powers of obstruction are removed, a safeguard, however, being provided in sub-clause (3) of clause 267, which requires the Local Government to satisfy themselves that the financial resources of the municipality will not be subjected to any undue strain by any scheme that may be enforced on it by the Government under this clause Sub-clause (4) enables the Government to compel the defaulting Commissioners to raise the rates up to the maximum for the carrying out of any such essential scheme, and enables the Government to advance money from the public funds for the execution of such scheme The appointment of a person to carry out a scheme, in connection with which the Commissioners have made default, is not a new power, but is contained in section 64 of the existing Act.

Clause 268 applies the provisions of clause 267 to joint schemes

Clause 269 enables the municipalities to join in a scheme initiated under clause 267 or 268.

Clause 270 provides for the settlement of disputes

Clause 271 enables the Local Government to take over any of the three essential services of a municipality in case of inefficient management The necessity for this clause is set out in the Statement of Objects and Reasons It deals with the taking over the management of a particular system and is more in the nature of a provision for an engineering control than for the control of a department

Clause 272 introduces modern provisions in regard to the laying down of pipes, drains, wires or sewers through private land as in the Punjab Act

Clauses 273 and 274 provide for due consideration being shown to the public in the laying of cables, wires, etc.

Clause 275 amplifies the provisions of the present section 290, which provisions at present relate only to water-supply. This principle of the existing section 290 is applied to water-supply, lighting and drainage

Sub-clause (2) applies the principle of section 302 of the Act to water-supply, drainage and lighting connections

Clause 276 on the provisions contained in section 228 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, the object being to secure that private connections within a reasonable distance of the municipal mains shall be separately connected therewith

Clause 277 and the following clauses introduce modern provisions in regard to the measurement of gas, electricity and water by means of meters The existing Act only provides specifically for meters in the case of water The use of meters for lighting is at present governed by the regulations, but it is desirable to provide for it in the body of the Statute

Clause 279 gives the usual power of inspection for the reading of meters, and clause 280 introduces the same presumption as in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, as to the correctness of the reading

In clause 281, however, it is provided that, if an incorrect meter has been found to be supplied and if the fact that it is incorrect is not due to its having been tampered with, the Commissioners shall provide a new meter at their own expense

Clause 282 provides for the temporary replacement of a damaged meter which is under repair

Clause 283 provides for the testing of meters, enabling owners and occupiers to challenge meter readings but at their own cost, unless the meter is found to be incorrect by more than two per cent.

Clause 284 provides against tampering with meters and sub-clause (2) introduces a necessary provision for evidence in proof of fraud.

Clause 285 provides against the injuring of meters and fittings

Clause 286 corresponds with section 289 of the present Act

Clause 287 corresponds with the existing section 294, but is more specifically drafted It deals with the supply of water for purposes other than domestic purposes

Clause 288 introduces more detailed provisions than are contained in the present section 295 for the calculation of the free allowance of water which is to be supplied for domestic purposes, and for the calculation of excess consumption and for the apportionment of the cost of such excess consumption between owners and occupiers of houses, with special provisions to cover cases where there is a transfer during a quarter

Clause 289 corresponds with the present section 301 of the existing Act, but a sub-clause (4) has been added to enable the Corporation to see that the connection or fitting which has been approved by them shall be maintained in proper order after such approval.

Clause 290 gives the Commissioners the necessary power to supply water to persons outside the municipality or to other local bodies on terms approved by the Local Government and subject to sanction by the same This clause amplifies the present section 300, and it imposes some control by the Local Government in this matter in the interests of the inhabitants of the municipality, to prevent undue preference being given to outsiders to the detriment of the persons living within the municipality.

Clause 291 collects various sections of the existing law relating to offences in regard to water-supply.

Clause 292 is on the same principle as section 305 of the existing Act, so far as the duty of the owner to keep the water connections of the house in repair is concerned, but it also provides for the occupier deducting any expenses incurred on repairs which should have been carried out by the owner, from the rent payable to him

Clause 293 reproduces the existing section 304

Clause 294 enables the Commissioners to take over and maintain communication-pipes and fittings of private water-works connected with the municipal water supply The provision is taken from Bombay and a similar power is contained in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923.

Clause 295 amplifies the provisions of the present section 297 as to the circumstances in which water may be cut off Under the present Act water may be cut off if there is refusal to pay the water-rate Following the decision of the Council with reference to the corresponding clause in the Calcutta Municipal Act, this power is abandoned, but there are other cases (which are stated in the present clause) under which it is necessary that water shall be cut off in the interests of the public

The drafting is based on the provisions of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, and special exceptions are made in regard to water required for privies and urinals

Clause 296 gives a general rule-making power in regard to water, gas and electricity to the Local Government in order to secure that some definite standard shall be maintained in these matters in the various municipalities The matters dealt with in this clause are largely technical and liable to change as progress is made in the science of engineering, and it is desirable that it should be possible to adapt these regulations to changing circumstances without having recourse to fresh legislation

Attention is invited to sub-clause (k) whereby the Local Government are empowered to exercise a proper control over the charges that may be exacted by the Commissioners for the supply of water, gas and electricity This is a very necessary safeguard to the rate-payers

Chapter IX.

This chapter supersedes the existing section 236, et seq. The wording generally follows that of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, as being more up to date and comprehensive than that of the existing Act.

As in the case of the chapter relating to streets, only certain portions of this chapter will apply to the less advanced municipalities Buildings in such municipalities will be regulated by model rules and by-laws In the more advanced municipalities, however, it is necessary to conform to the requirements of modern times

Clause 297 limits the application of Schedule VI and certain sections to municipalities to which it may be extended by notification, except that these sections will be automatically in force in municipalities in which corresponding sections of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, are in force.

Clause 298 applies to all municipalities and provides for the prohibition of building on insanitary and unsuitable sites, this being of first importance to the health of the town and of the inmates of the building constructed

Clause 299 enables the Commissioners, in the event of the extent or position of the site of a building being disputed, to decide the matter

Clause 300 provides for the means of access to a new building and the prevention of the erection of a building in such a manner as to deprive others of access to a public road This point is dealt with partly in section 241 (c) of the existing Act

Clause 301 provides for the exemption of certain small buildings from the general building regulations and also for the speedy erection of temporary buildings, such as infectious hospitals, etc.

Sub-clause (c) of that clause provides against the infringement of private rights, which can only be protected by action taken on behalf of the owner of a dominant tenement.

Clauses 302 to 304 deal with applications for sanction These clauses must be read with the details contained in Schedule VI Provision is made against an arbitrary refusal by the Commissioners to accord sanction and also against their delaying to pass orders If they do not pass orders within a reasonable time as provided by clause 303, then under clause 304 the person who desires to erect the building may proceed with the work provided that he does not contravene this Act or any rules, etc., made thereunder

Clause 305 introduces a provision for a completion certificate after a new building other than a hut has been erected to enable the Commissioners to inspect under clause 306 the work that has been done The provision at present exists in the case of Darjeeling

Under clause 306 the municipal authorities are empowered to inspect works in progress and after completion and to insist on their being carried out in conformity with the Act This provision also was only applicable to Darjeeling under the existing law

Clause 307 gives the grounds under which the erection of a new building may be refused and confines the Commissioners to certain clear and well defined reasons

Clause 308 is taken from the United Provinces Act, and is designed to minimise the risk of fire in urban areas In the case of inflammable roofs and walls, which have been erected before the Commissioners have prohibited the erection of such structures compensation is to be paid to the owner if the structure is removed by order

Clause 309 provides against fraud and misrepresentation in the making of applications under clause 302

Clause 310 is based on section 239 of the existing Act and it is made more specific as to the limit of time within which building operations are to commence after sanction has been given This point is not provided for satisfactorily in the present law

Clause 311 is based largely on the provisions of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, and provides for the control by the Commissioners of material alterations and additions to buildings It explains definitely the kind of repairs, etc , that are to be considered to be material alterations and additions A provision to regulate such repairs is on the face of it as necessary as a provision to regulate the erection of new buildings More breaches of the building regulations occur in regard to such alterations and additions than when a building is being built owing to the difficulty of check

Clause 312 enables the Local Government to alter the building regulations contained in Schedule VI where necessary A similar provision in regard to other schedules is contained in clause 542

Clause 313 provides for the adaptation of the provisions of this Act and of Schedule VI to less advanced municipalities by means of by-laws framed by the Commissioners either of their own motion or under orders of the Local Government

Clause 314 deals in far greater detail than the present section 241 with the various matters which should be provided for by means of by-laws These matters are technical and it is not necessary to refer to them in detail The need of proper ventilation and sanitation is made more clear than in the existing Act

Clauses 315 and 316 group together the provisions for the demolition or alteration of any unlawful work under the orders of a Magistrate on an application by the Commissioners after the owner has had an opportunity of complying with a requisition made by the Commissioners A similar provision exists in section 244 of the present Act in regard to Darjeeling

Clause 317 gives the owner a special opportunity of showing cause before a prosecution is instituted against him for failure to comply with a requisition made by the Commissioners in regard to matters referred to in clause 315 or clause 316

Clause 318 provides for the discontinuance and if necessary the stopping of unlawful building A somewhat similar provision is in force in Darjeeling This is now made of general application

Chapter X.

Bustees.

This chapter deals with bustees on a principle different altogether from the principles of the existing Act Under the existing Act provision is made in sections 243 and 244 for the control of the erection of new lines of huts, and in sections 245 et seq there is a general power to affect sanitary improvements in bustees. The provisions of this chapter are however based on those contained in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, the problems in this respect being similar both in Calcutta and in the mufassil and the Calcutta provisions being more detailed

Clause 319 provides that this chapter is to apply only to municipalities when it is specially extended thereto except in the case of those municipalities where corresponding provisions of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, are already in force

In clause 320 power is taken to define the limits of a bustee, and it is provided that the provisions of this chapter shall not apply either to small groups of huts in an area of less than two bighas or to certain masonry buildings included in a bustee.

Clause 321 provides for a proper inquiry, whenever it is reported that a bustee is in an insanitary state, by a registered medical practitioner or a person holding the diploma of public health and an engineer A proper lay-out is to be prepared by these persons. These persons will be an authority independent of the Commissioners, and they will devise a scheme for altering the bustee so as to make its condition sanitary The Commissioners under clause 322 may take action on their report

Clause 323 deals with expenses in regard to bustee improvement These expenses will ordinarily fall on the owner of the bustee and the owners of huts, but in special cases the Commissioners may meet the whole or a portion of the charges which should be borne by the owners of huts and may advance from the municipal fund money to defray the charges which should have been borne by the owner of the bustee land itself In the latter case they will have a lien on such land for the repayment of what they have lent

Clause 325 deals in detail with the treatment of masonry buildings in a bustee Generally speaking, such masonry buildings are not to be interfered with except by acquisition and on payment of full compensation

Clause 326 deals with streets and passages in bustees These streets and passages require special treatment owing to the way on which huts are taken up and replaced in other positions

Clauses 327 and 328 provide for the common bathing arrangements and common privy accommodation in a bustee, and also for lighting, water-supply and other conveniences in a bustee

Clause 329 gives power to the owner to remove huts and cause the bustee to cease to be treated as such Necessary safeguards are however included as in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, to see that huts are not temporarily removed merely in order to gain time and then put them up again Provision is also made in sub-clause (8) for compensation in cases of hardship, owing to bustee land, on which there are roads, ceasing to be included within the bustee

Clause 330 provides for street alignments of huts in those bustees for which it is considered inexpedient to provide a regular standard plan and for the leaving of suitable open spaces This is the milder form of procedure for the improvement of a bustee and under clause 331 adequate time is allowed for the hut-owners to set back their huts to the prescribed alignment at the time of repair or rebuilding of the same Seven years is considered a suitable time for this purpose Compensation may also be paid in cases where, after the expiry of five years, the Commissioners decide to compel the hut-owner who has not set back his hut to do so It is not desirable that such compensation should be greater than the value of the hut less the value of the materials

In clause 332 provision is made for the alignment of masonry buildings erected in a bustee, in respect of which a standard plan has been prepared or a street alignment prescribed.

Chapter XI.

Clause 333—The drafting of section 199 of the existing Act has been adopted with slight formal alterations

Clause 334 defines more specifically the powers of the Commissioners to make owners and persons having control over sources of water-supply which are used for drinking or culinary purposes liable to protect the same from pollution

Clause 335 is largely a corollary of clause 334 and, in addition to the powers contained in the present section 199A of the Behgal Municipal Act, provides for the filling up of insanitary wells, etc

Clause 336 provides a necessary power of inspection, and clauses 337, 338 and 339 introduce detailed provisions on the lines of the English Public Health Act for the proper analysis of drinking water and water used for culinary purposes, whether supplied by the municipality or taken from the sources under the control of private parties. Extensive powers of analysis of food exist already under the Bengal Food Adulteration Act, but that Act does not cover the analysis of water-supply Provision is made against harassment of parties by frivolous requests for analysis

Chapter XII.

Clause 341 is a new clause based on the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, to provide for the proper control of places where water accumulates to the detriment of the public health This is a particularly important clause for the eradication of malaria and the promotion of public health The provisions are not, however, made as stringent as is the case in Calcutta

Clause 342 gives the Commissioners more detailed powers than they have at present in regard to the control over excavations

Clause 343 provides for a further safeguard to members of the public in regard to excavations, being framed in order to prevent them from falling into the same The provision exists in the present Act, but the limit of time within which the excavation is to be protected has been removed in the interests of safety.

Clause 344 is new and provides for the control of noxious plants and water-hyacinth

Clause 345 gives a specific power to the Commissioners to inspect buildings on sanitary grounds, and clause 346 provides for the cleansing and white-washing of buildings on such grounds

Clause 347 reproduces section 195 of the existing Act, but is worded somewhat more widely than that section In particular, the danger of jungle in municipalities as a bar to ventilation is more clearly recognised than in the existing law, as are also the evils arising from thick vegetation even though such vegetation is not in itself noxious

Clause 348 amplifies the provisions contained in the present section 210, the wording of which has been found to be defective, the drafting of the clause, therefore, being made more general

Clause 349 introduces the provisions of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, in regard to obstructive buildings objectionable on sanitary grounds This clause is of special importance in regard to any project for the comprehensive improvement of a municipal area Provision has been made for an appeal to the Local Government against the orders of the Commissioners

Clauses 350 and 351 make more specific the powers of the Commissioners to cause the vacating of dwelling-houses which are unfit for human habitation The provisions of these clauses are taken from the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, and provide for a more detailed procedure for putting buildings of this type into proper condition than exists in the present law

Clause 352 provides against overcrowding except by members of family of the owner of a dwelling-house, and is a necessary addition to the existing law, especially in industrial areas It follows the law, which obtains in Madras

Clause 353 gives an emergency power to the Commissioners to take action themselves in regard to property which is in such a condition that it causes imminent danger to the public This clause follows the United Provinces Act

Chapter XIII.

Clause 354—The list of offensive and dangerous trades, occupations and processes has been made more specific in the light of experience The wording of sub-clause (ix) has been made more general in view of the recent decision of the High Court that "kilns" do not include "clamps" Necessary provisions in regard to petroleum have been inserted in sub-clause (4)

Clause 355—The drafting of section 310 has been slightly altered, the word "nuisance" having a special technical significance in this Bill under the provisions of Chapter XXI

Clause 356—The drafting of this clause has been made somewhat wider than the present section 263, so that control over the keeping of horses, ponies, cattle, etc, in any part of a municipality may be exercised by the Commissioners

Sub-clause (2) gives detailed powers to the Commissioners to prescribe that horses, ponies, cattle, etc , shall be kept in sanitary and well constructed stables or stalls

Clause 357 is based on the present section 264, but it also enables the Commissioners to license places as public stables on such conditions as they may think to be proper

Clause 358 should be read with sub-clause (b) of clause 359 in so far as it relates to the stalling of horses, camels, cattle, etc , and with sub-clause (c) of that clause in so far as it relates to the prevention of any public nuisance from the stalling and straying of pigs. Representations have been made from municipal authorities that increased powers in this last direction must be taken owing to the annoyance caused.

Chapter XIV.

Chapter XIV "Restraint of infection" is almost entirely new. The existing Act provides no scientific machinery for checking the spread of infectious or contagious diseases. The provisions of this chapter are taken from the Public Health Acts of various countries and from the Public Health sections adopted by provinces whose municipal legislation is more advanced than is the case in Bengal

Clause 360 imposes a definite duty on the Commissioners to take action in the event of the outbreak of any dangerous disease and defines the duties which they are to carry out in this connection

Clause 361 provides for the preliminary step of notifying the occurrence of any infectious case in a private house

Clause 362 provides for the removal of patients to an isolation hospital, due provision being made for securing the privacy of women according to custom and for the presence of an attendant with female patients It also provides for the maintenance of an adequate nursing staff to deal with infectious cases

Clause 363 provides for the disinfection of premises where infectious cases have occurred, or which are kept in such a condition that they are likely to foster dangerous diseases Provision is made that, where the occupier of the premises which are cleansed is indigent, the municipality may bear the cost of such disinfection Provision is also made for the vacation by the inmates of premises which are being disinfected, temporary accommodation being provided by the authorities during the period of such vacation

Clause 364 gives a necessary power to the Commissioners to destroy a hut or shed to prevent the spread of infection, suitable compensation being given to the owner thereof.

Clause 365 provides against the letting out of infected houses until the work of disinfection has been properly carried out

Clause 366 provides for the supply of places and materials for disinfection, and for the disinfection of clothing or conveyances or any article which has been infected, and for the destruction of, and grant of compensation for, any article which is likely to retain infection or cannot be preserved

Clause 367 is a corollary providing for the washing of conveyances, clothing, etc, exposed to infection

Clause 368 renders penal the doing of certain acts by infected persons which are likely to cause risk of infection to others

Clause 369 applies the same principle to the disposal of infected articles by private persons at the risk of their neighbours

Clause 370 imposes certain elementary safeguards in regard to the segregation of the infected, and enables persons driving, or in charge of, a public conveyance which is used for the carrying of an infected person to a hospital, or for the carrying of a dead body for disposal or of infected clothing, etc, for disinfectin or destruction, to charge an adequate fare for the expense and trouble to which he will subsequently be put in getting his conveyance disinfected

Clause 371 provides for the disinfection of public conveyances after these are exposed to contamination

Clause 372 provides for the maintenance by the Commissioners of ambulances for the removal of infectious cases

Clause 373 provides for the inspection of infected premises

Clause 374 provides for the closing of a market with a view to prevent the spread of any dangerous disease, subject to an appeal by the occupier or farmer or any person interested to the Magistrate or the Commissioner of the Division

Clause 375 makes a like provision in regard to the closing of a school owing to the appearance of a dangerous disease amongst the scholars or owing to the state of the school This clause is based on the Scotch law

Clause 376 gives detailed powers in regard to by-laws relating to the prevention or the spread of dangerous diseases, more particularly in regard to the sanitation of places where a number of persons are employed, and to the safeguarding of the public from infection from carcasses of animals. A special provision is taken to enable municipalities to combat malaria

Clause 377 introduces a power to the Health Officer to see to vaccination within a municipality

Chapter XV.

Chapter XV is also a new chapter, dealing with hospitals, dispensaries, child-welfare and school hygiene .The present power of the Commissioners to contribute to the maintenance of hospitals, dispensaries, etc, has been carried forward in the Bill to the chapter on Municipal property and finance [vide item (xi) of sub-clause (1) of clause 97].

Clause 378 gives detailed powers to the Commissioners to establish their own hospitals and dispensaries

Clause 379 provides for the maintenance of midwives and health-visitors. In the case of midwives, it is made legal to impose a fee, but it is not intended that fees shall be imposed for the service of health-visitors whose duties will be advisory, though their qualifications will be prescribed The municipality may themselves offer a salary to a health-visitor if they think fit to do so

Clause 380 gives to the Local Government the power of making rules for child-welfare and for the proper care of maternity cases It is necessary that municipalities should take steps to prevent to a greater extent, than is at present the case, the heavy infant mortality that takes place in urban areas in this province Provision has been taken for the proper sanitary inspection of schools and colleges in the interests of the people

Chapter XVI.

Clauses 381 and 382—These clauses reproduce the provisions of the existing Part XIA of the present Act in regard to the extinction and prevention of fire

Clause 383 introduces provisions for the safeguarding of urban areas by the power of inspection and seizure and confiscation of dangerous and inflammable materials improperly stored within a municipality.

Clause 384 also provides for the regulation of the stacking or collecting of hay, straw, wood, thatching grass, jute or other inflammable materials

Clause 385 provides for the making of by-laws not only in regard to municipal fire-brigades but also in regard to any volunteer fire-brigades which the Commissioners may recognise

Chapter XVII.

Markets and Slaughter-houses.

Clause 386, which is based on the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, amplifies section 335 of the existing Act Attention is invited to sub-clause (3) whereby the Commissioners may, in the interests of the public, cancel the license of any person who closes his shop to the inconvenience of the public A similar power in regard to private licensed markets has been taken under sub-clause (2) of clause 389

Clause 387 gives definite power to the Commissioners to close any municipal market

Clause 388 is based on the Madras law, and gives power for the removal of unauthorised persons selling their wares in a municipal market

Clause 389 deals with the regulation of, and grant of licenses for, private markets

Clause 390 enables the Commissioners to apply to the Magistrate in order to close any unlicensed place which is used as a market

Clause 391 brings into the municipal law the provisions formerly contained in the Bengal Municipal (Slaughter-houses and Meat-markets) Act, 1865, following the form adopted by the United Provinces in their legislation

Clause 392 is also based on the provisions of the Bengal Municipal (Slaughter-houses and Meat-markets) Act, 1865

Clause 393 brings together the various provisions in regard to the proper construction and care of private markets particularly in regard to the draining and cleansing of such places The fixed period of 30 days before a penalty can be imposed is removed, the matter being dealt with on the general lines of failure to comply with a requisition

Clause 394 provides for the construction of proper approaches and streets to or in private markets, and for the defining of the limits of such markets

Clause 395 gives detailed powers for the ejectment of persons who have been convicted of contravening any by-law made under section 396 from markets or slaughter-houses, and for the prevention of such persons carrying on their business there in future and for the removal by owners of private markets of tenants convicted of contravening such by-laws

Clauses 396 and 397 correspond to sections 339, 341, 342 and 343 of the existing Act

Clause 398 gives detailed powers of making by-laws in regard to markets and slaughter-houses, particularly in regard to the proper cleansing and sanitary condition of the same and the care of animals, and the prevention of cruelty, nuisances and obstruction.

Chapter XVIII.

Chapter XVIII is also new and provides for the regulation by the Commissioners of weights and measures to be in use in the municipality. This chapter is only to be in force in municipalities to which it has been specially extended. The provisions of this chapter are the result of consultation with various local bodies as to simple regulations which may be enforced in a mufassal municipality

Clause 401—The standard weights which are to be adopted when this chapter is enforced are the Government standard weights which are described in this clause, and under clause 400 power is taken for the destruction of false weights and measures

Chapter XIX.

The provisions of Chapter XIX are to some extent supplementary to the provisions of the Bengal Food Adulteration Act, which has fairly recently been passed by the Council They are mainly taken from the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923 The provisions of sections 249 to 257 of the existing Act have been found by the municipalities to be wholly inadequate for the purpose of preventing the sale of unwholesome food The main principle of this chapter, however, remains as in the existing Act, and is that, although the executive of the municipality may take the initiative in the prevention of the sale of unsound or unwholesome food, final orders in the matter are to be passed by an independent magisterial authority

Clause 402 provides for the licensing of persons who carry on the trade of butcher or who sell meat, game, poultry, fish, etc.

Clause 403 provides for the establishment of municipal bakeries and sweetmeat shops

Clause 404 is based on the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, but is extended to the sale of confectionery, ice and ærated-waters The licensing of dairymen, milkmen, bakers, confectioners, sweetmeat makers, keeper of tea shops, hotels, and eating houses and ice or ærated-water manufacturers is a most necessary addition to the law as a safeguard to the public health

Clause 405 is based on the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, and prohibits the sale of diseased, unsound or unwholesome food or drugs

Clause 406 introduces a salutary provision, taken from the Public Health Acts of Fiji and Trinidad, for the keeping of bread-stuffs, cake, pastry, sweetmeats and confectionery in properly covered utensils or receptacles when exposed for sale, as a protection against dirt, dust and flies.

Clauses 407 and 408 provide for the proper regulation of the compounding and sale of drugs recognised by the British Pharmacopœa, and for the proper qualification of compounders to compound such drugs

Clause 409, as in the case of the existing law, exempts indigenous medicines from any such control, provided they are not sold in places where drugs recognised by the British Pharmacopœa are sold upon prescription Some control over such drugs can, however, be exercised under the provisions of clause 405

Clause 410—The provisions of clause 410 are taken partly from the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, and the Punjab Law, and provide for the inspection of places where unlawful slaughter of animals or sale of flesh is suspected They are not, however, so severe as those of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, or the Punjab Law, in that it is necessary for the searching officer to obtain a warrant before he can make an entry

Clause 411 gives powers of inspection of food and drugs on the same lines as sections 251B and 253 of the existing Act The provisions, however, are more detailed, and the burden of proof is thrown on the party charged where unsound articles of food and drugs are found in places where articles of food and drugs are ordinarily kept or exposed for sale.

Clause 412 provides for the seizure of utensils The provisions of this clause in regard to tea are made stringent (vide the Explanation)

Clause 413 provides for the destruction of articles of a perishable nature if they are found to be diseased, unsound, unwholesome or unfit for human food

Clause 414 introduces provisions in regard to unwholesome food or drugs on the same lines as those contained in clause 410 in regard to the sale of flesh

Clause 415 provides for the production before the Magistrate of living things, articles of food, drugs, utensils or vessels which have been seized, but which have not been destroyed according to law, and for the decision of the Magistrate as to whether these things shall be destroyed or not, and also for compensation in the case of unjustified seizure.

Clause 416 vests in the Commissoners the property in any living thing, food or drug condemned under this chapter.

Clause 417 bars the application of Chapter XIX to slaughter of animals for bona fide religious purpose or on a ceremonial occasion

Clause 418 enables the municipalities to take measures to ensure purity of the milk-supply It must be read with clauses 404 and 406 and also with item (xxi) of sub-clause (1) of clause 97 under which the Commissioners are entitled to maintain their own dairy-farms, grazing-grounds and milk-depôts for the benefit of the inhabitants The provisions which are detailed are based on the Public Health Acts of Fiji and South Africa, special care being enjoined in regard to the receptacles in which milk is kept, and to ventilation and the proper care of cattle

Chapter XX.

Clauses 419 to 424 reproduce the existing law in regard to burial or burning grounds with a few minor alterations and amplifications

The provisions contained in existing section 256 as to taking over buildings attached to closed burning or burial grounds are omitted

Clause 425, sub-clause (2), introduces an important provision in regard to the safeguarding of the public from infection and contagion from the bodies of persons who have died from infectious and contagious diseases and for the rapid disposal of such bodies

No important changes have been introduced in clauses 426 to 428 They follow substantially the existing law

Clause 429—The appointment of a Registrar and Sub-Registrars for the purpose of the correct compilation of vital statistics is explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons

Clause 432 provides more fully for the procedure in regard to the registration of births and notices of deaths The object of this clause is not only to ensure correct returns but also to enable the Public Health Department to put its machinery in motion where this is necessary

Chapter XXI.

Chapter XXI deals with the more summary measures to be adopted in dealing with nuisances which are a cause of annoyance to the inhabitants of a municipality or the public in general or injurious or dangerous to health It reproduces in clause 433 a statement of many of the conditions which are enumerated in earlier clauses in the Bill, and it provides a procedure which in most cases is alternative to the procedure laid down in the earlier chapters The definition of "author of a nuisance" in this connection is important as it enables the municipality to proceed under this chapter against any person by whose act, default or sufferance the nuisance is caused

Clause 434, sub-clause (1), imposes on the Commissioners the duty of inspecting the municipality from time to time to see that nuisances do not exist, and sub-clause (2) enables them to enter any premises for the purposes of such inspection whenever they have reasonable grounds to believe that a nuisance exists therein and to open the subsoil and test the drains in cases where this is necessary

Clause 435 enables any person to give information to the Commissioners of the existence of a nuisance and lays on municipal officers the duty of doing so

Clause 436 enables the Commissioners to serve a summary notice on the author of a nuisance or the owner or occupier of the dwelling or premises calling on him to take action for its removal In the event of his failing to do so, action is to be taken under clause 437 through the Magistrate who may either require him to remove the nuisance, or order the Commissioners to remove it and to realise the costs from the author of the nuisance or the owner or occupier of the premises Action under this clause may also be taken where the nuisance has been removed but is likely to recur

Clause 438 provides for the recovery of costs from the author of the nuisance, where the owner or occupier of the premises is not known or cannot be found

Clause 439 enables the Magistrate to award compensation to a person on whom a notice has been served for the removal of a nuisance or to any other person if, in his opinion that person would have been entitled to compensation if the proceedings had been taken against him otherwise than under this chapter and that the case is a fit one for the grant of compensation.

Chapter XXII.

Clause 440—The existing Act makes no proper provision for supervision by the Commissioners of education in municipalities. This clause, therefore, provides for the appointment of an Education Committee somewhat on the lines laid down in section 65B of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885. Power has also been taken under items (ix) and (x) of sub-clause (1) of clause 97 to enable municialities to contribute towards the efficient management of schools within their jurisdiction and also to grant scholarships.

Clause 441 defines generally the powers of the municipalites in regard to schools maintained by them or to which they make grants-in-aid.

Clause 442 enables the Local Government to regulate the percentage of the income of the municipality which is to be applied to primary education in cases where a special education cess is not levied under the Bengal Primary Education Act of 1919 It will be noted that it is not proposed that that part of the income of the municipality, which is derived from the lighting, water and conservancy rates and is applicable only to those essential services, should be diverted to this purpose

Clause 443 enables the Local Government to assist the Commissioners with funds for educational purposes and provides for the proper allocation of such funds when such grants are made by Government

Clause 444 gives the Local Government a rule-making power with a view to the maintenance of standard methods of educational management in the various municipalities

Clause 445 introduces a necessary provision for the regulation of sarais, dharamsalas and lodging-houses This should be read with the definition of "lodging-house" contained in item (30) of clause 3 The provisions of this clause cover generally the proper lodging of pilgrims and travellers of the poorer classes

Clause 446 enables the Commissioners to deal with hackney-carriage drivers if they refuse to ply for hire and thereby deprive the public of the necessary means of conveyance for which licenses have been granted to the hackney-carriage drivers The necessary power has also been taken to deal with the owners

Clauses 447 and 448 amplify the present general provisions contained in section 223 of the existing Act It has been found in practice that a survey of municipal land should include a proper survey of buildings also

Detailed provisions are made for the entertainment of professional surveyors and also for the maintenance by the Commissioners of the survey record by means of by-laws under which changes in the map, caused by property-owners, are to be notified by them in order that the map may be corrected Suitable boundary-marks shall also be set up to define the limits of holdings

Clause 449 introduces a necessary provision for maintenance of a map showing the position of all municipal properties, municipal institutions, roads and drains

Clause 450 amplifies the provisions of the present section 213 relating to the destruction of stray dogs

Clause 451 enables suspected dogs to be properly segregated so as to avoid destruction of animals which may be found not to have been infected

Clause 452 merely reproduces section 214 of the existing Act

Clause 453 reproduces section 359 of the existing Act

Clause 454 applies the principle which is contained in section 278 of the present Act in regard to the licensing of premises for particular purposes to the cancellation of such licenses when the premises are used otherwise than for those purposes

Chapter XXIII.

Clause 455—The provisions relating to hill municipalities have been collected from the body of the Act and brought together in Chapter XXIII The main portion of the Act will, of course, apply to hill municipalities with certain exceptions The main exceptions are those enumerated in clause 455

A necessary extension of the definition of "drain" is introduced in clause 456 when applying that definition to hill municipalities

Clause 457 collects together the definitions applicable to hill municipalities which are at present scattered over section 6 of the existing Act

Clauses 458 to 464 reproduce the provisions of sections 201A to 201G of the existing Act, and clauses 65 and 66 reproduce the provisions of the existing sections 207 and 207A

Clause 467—This clause should be read with section 201 of the existing Act and with clause 219 of the Bill The latter clause will apply to public roads generally, including roads in hill municipalities.

Clauses 468 and 469 reproduce the provisions of sections 224B, 224C and 244Z of the existing Act

Clauses 470 and 471 reproduce the provisions of sections 227 and 228 of the existing Act.

Clauses 472 and 473 reproduce the provisions of sections 210B and 210C of the existing Act

Clause 479 reproduces existing section 244V and clauses 480 to 484 the provisions of existing sections 351D to 351H

Clause 485 is based on the existing section 350A, but it is grouped more homogeneously

Sub-clause (a) regulates the actual control of the hillsides

Sub-clauses (c), (d) and (e) introduce the traffic provisions necessary in a hill municipality.

Sub-clauses (f) and (g) are reproduced from section 350A of the existing Act

Sub-clause (h) is consequential on the main clauses relating to hill municipalities

Chapter XXIV.

Clause 486—The penalty sections of the existing Act, which are scattered throughout the Act, have been grouped together on the same principle as in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923 Where, however, there is a power to impose imprisonment as well as fine, the point has been emphasised by the penalty being entered in a separate clause of the Bill (vide, for example, the clauses in regard to election offences)

Clause 487 deals with the penalties in regard to the erection of new buildings and additions and alterations to existing buildings These matters cannot suitably be dealt with in a general penalty clause which merely enumerates the subject-matter

Clause 488 appears as a separate clause in virtue of the sentence of imprisonment which a Magistrate is empowered to impose on persons falling within its scope

Clause 489 gives the usual power in regard to the attachment of a penalty to a breach of by-laws

Clause 490 reproduces existing section 366

Chapter XXV.

Clause 491 should be read with clause 493

The existing section 351 deals with the procedure for publishing by-laws, etc It is desirable to have a uniform system in regard to the publication of by-laws, orders and public notices, etc

Clause 492—The main provisions of the existing Act in regard to the making of rules and by-laws are brought up to date by recognising the practice of issuing model rules and by-laws and the fact that, where a standard form of rule or by-law is adopted, it is not necessary to go through a lengthy procedure It also provides for the rescinding of model rules and by-laws by the Local Government

Clause 494 provides for facsimile signatures being used in notices, etc, in order to save work to the municipal staff

Clause 495 provides in detail for the persons who are empowered to issue notices, by-laws, summonses, etc

Clauses 496 and 497 set out the procedure for the service of notices, by-laws, summonses, etc This procedure is practically the same as in the existing Act, though the clauses have been re-arranged for the purpose of greater clearness

Clause 498 contain the provisions in regard to the power of entry The wording is based on the existing Madras Act and on the existing section 351O Similarly powers have been taken in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923

Clause 499 provides against the obstruction of the Commissioners or any of their officers and servants in carrying out their duties under this Act It has been drafted so as also to cover the cases of officers who may be called upon to assist the Commissioners in effecting an entry.

Clause 500.—The existing provisions of section 175 are extended to requisitions made under any part of the Act, and such requisitions may be enforced against the owners and occupiers of lands and buildings and not only of lands which is the case under the present Act.

Clause 501 reproduces the provisions of section 176 of the existing Act It is not, of course, applicable to proceedings for the removal of nuisances which are of an urgent nature (In such cases the party has his opportunity of defending the case in the Magistrate's Court)

Clauses 502 and 503 reproduce the provisions of section 177 and 178 of the existing Act

Clause 504 reproduces the provisions of section 179 of the existing Act with a small consequential amendment

Clause 505 reproduces the provisions of section 180 of the existing Act with the addition of sub-clause (2) to make it clear that punishment for failure to obey a requisition does not close the matter It might pay a defaulter to pay the penalty on each occasion rather than carry out a necessary work

Clause 506 reproduces the provisions of section 181 of the existing Act with an amendment made consequentially to the enlargement of the scope of clause 500

Clauses 507 and 508 reproduce the provisions of sections 182 and 183 of the existing Act with amendments on the same principle

Clause 509 reproduce the provision of section 224-2A of the existing Act regarding recovery of costs by instalments or its remission in case of poverty

Clauses 510 and 511 reproduce the provisions of sections 360 and 361 of the present Act

Clause 512 reproduces the provisions of section 212 of the present Act, except that it undergoes consequential enlargement on the same principle as clause 500

Clause 513 reproduces the provisions of section 211 of the existing Act with a minor drafting amendment

Clause 514 has been taken from the Bombay Act so as to avoid a lacuna in the existing law in regard to persons who damage municipal property There is no corresponding section in the Bengal Act.

Clause 515 makes clear the position of agents and trustees in regard to property within a municipality of which they are agents or trustees A similar provision has been inserted in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923

Clause 516—The principle of section 242A in regard to appeals in respect of buildings, etc , has been extended to appeals in regard to various other matters dealt with under the Bill Where, however, the Commissioners under the Bill must only exercise at a meeting powers, which could formerly be exercised otherwise than at a meeting, it is not necessary to provide for an appeal

Clause 523 is based on section 128 of the existing Act

Clause 524 gives the Commissioners a discretion in deciding as to the persons who are bound to perform municipal duties, etc , or who have various rights in connection with municipal affairs It is based on the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923

Clause 525 makes clear the position of municipal officers, servants, etc., as public servants. A similar provision exists in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923

Clause 526 provides for the prohibition of obstruction to municipal contractors and is also based on the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923.

Clause 527 provides against the removal of boundary marks without the permission of the Commissioners.

Clause 529 gives the same power of delegation as exists in the present Act between the Local Government and the Commissioners of Divisions, except that the delegation is more general, only the constitutional provisions being excluded from the power of delegation

Clause 530 is based on the existing section 64, but has been enlarged on the same principle as is adopted in the United Provinces Act, to enable the Commissioner, District Magistrate or Subdivisional Officer to call for reports and returns and copies of documents and to place before the Commissioners in writing his views on any matter concerning the municipality

Clause 531 removes the lacuna in the existing Act in regard to the power of certain officers of Government to inspect municipal institutions, registers, accounts, etc

Clause 533 reproduces the provisions of section 63 of the existing Act

Clause 534 reproduces the provisions of the first two paragraphs of the existing section 64 The third paragraph is dealt with under clause 535

Clause 535—This clause, as is explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, provides for the supersession of a particular department of a municipality, in connection with which there is gross mismanagement or persistent default or an abuse of power by the Commissioners The provision is less drastic than the supersession of the whole municipality

Clause 536 is on the lines of the third paragraph of the existing section 64

Clause 537—This clause is explained fully in the Statement of Objects and Reasons

Clause 538 reproduces the provisions of section 65 of the existing Act

Clause 540 enables the Local Government to withdraw sections that are extended by them to any municipality It applies the general principles which are contained in the General Clauses Act

Clause 541 reproduces the provisions of section 66A of the existing Act, but provides an appeal to the Local Government in certain cases

Clause 542 contains a power to the Local Government in regard to the alteration of the schedules, except in such matters as are basic to the Act or are provided for elsewhere therein

This voucher for refunds provides for a certificate of such note having been made. The officer who received the amount should fill in columns 1 to 5 of the form and sign the certificate in column 10, while the Treasury Officer or the Sub-Treasury Officer should verify the credit by means of the particulars on columns 4 and 5 and affix his signature in column 6 in token of his having done so. NOTE OF DISSENT BY MR. S. M. BOSE, M.L.C.

I sign the Report subject to the following note of dissent :—

(1) I think the Act should apply in respect of compulsory primary education to girls between the age of six and eleven as provided in the Bengal (Rural) Primary Education Act, 1930, and not between the age of six and ten as drafted Act IV of 1919 which we are amending, should be brought into line with the Bengal (Rural) Primary Education Act which provides for compulsory primary education for a child who is not less than six and not more than eleven years of age It is true that Act IV of 1919, passed in less advanced times, comtemplated compulsory primary education for those who are not less than six or more than ten years of age This is an anomaly when compared with the Act of 1930 As we are extending the provisions of Act IV of 1919 to girls, I see no reason why we should not take this opportunity to bring it into conformity (so far as girls are concerned) with the Act of 1930 The raising of the age of marriage by the Sarda Act is an argument in favour of giving more education to girls As regards boys, I suggest that Government should make a similar change

(2) I am of opinion that the last proviso to the proposed section 17A should be deleted. This seeks to empower the Local Government at its discretion to refuse permission to the Commissioners of a municipality to start compulsory primary education for girls

Under section 6 of the Act, the Commissioners, after making arrangements satisfactory to Government to provide for voluntary primary education of children between the ages of six and eleven, may apply for permission to introduce compulsory primary education for boys, and under section 6, sub-section (2), the Local Government, if they are satisfied that the municipality is able to meet the necessary expenditure, shall grant the permission asked for and they have no option left in the matter But in the last proviso to the proposed section 17A, it is sought to be enacted that if the Commissioners of a municipality are of opinion that compulsory primary education for girls should be introduced and if they are able to meet the necessary expenditure, even then the Local Government can refuse permission—that which they cannot do in the case of boys This differentiation is wholly illogical and indefensible.

This clause, it is said, is necessary to provide for the case of opposition to women's education by the orthodox But it is to be noted that there can be no compulsory attendance at a municipality primary school, if it is over a mile from the child's house, or if the child is already being satisfactorily educated elsewhere Further, it is the Commissioners (who are mostly elected) who are to consider and determine whether compulsory primary education for girls should be introduced within the municipality They are presumably better judges of this matter than the Government, and if the former are prepared to shoulder the burden, I see no reason why the latter should have the power to refuse permission, simply because girls are concerned This is a negation of the principle of local self-government which we are so anxious to extend

Then it is said that it is very unlikely that the Minister in charge of Education would be swayed by clamour from the orthodox But I do not want to leave the matter to his discretion in the case of girls, when he has none in the case of boys Further, I do not want to give any chance to reactionaries to raise an agitation to prevent spread of women's education and thus to embarrass Government

Finally, urban areas are more likely to need the application of compulsion for girls than rural areas, as the former are more enlightened So when any municipality wants to enforce compulsory primary education for girls, their action has the backing of educated public opinion, and there is no necessity to empower the Government with the discretion to refuse the application.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, was experimental in character, and since its coming into force on the 1st July, 1924, a number of modifications of its provisions have been suggested by various authorities and interests A few amendments, which were designed to remedy admitted defects or to embody improvements of a non-controversial character, were effected by the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act, 1929 Those proposals which involved the modification of the principles underlying the Act or its more important features were referred by the Government of India to Local Governments for opinions in a circular letter in 1928 Copies of this circular letter and of the replies received thereto were supplied to the Royal Commission on Labour who have, after reviewing the question in the light of further evidence supplied to them, made a number of recommendations on the subject in Chapter XVI of their Report This Bill follows these recommendations closely, some minor additional provisions have been incorporated, but few variations from the Commission's proposals have been made The amendments proposed to be made in the Act are explained in detail in the subjoined Notes on Clauses

NOTES ON CLAUSES

Clause 2 (a) (i)—This amendment adds widowed daughters and widowed sisters to the relatives of a deceased workman to whom a share in the compensation may be allotted by the Commissioner

Clause 2 (a) (ii)—The existing Act applies only to those seamen who are employed on any sea-going or home-trade ships registered under certain Indian Acts and of a registered tonnage of not less than 300 tons The amendment seeks to reduce the tonnage limit to 50 tons In the case of inland steam-vessels it is proposed to remove the tonnage limit and to extend the scope of the Act to all inland vessels whether propelled by steam or other mechanical power or by electricity See sub-clause (iii) in clause 20

Clause 2 (a) (iii)—In its application to workmen employed in the capacities specified in Schedule II, the scope of the Act is restricted to those who are employed either by way of manual labour or on monthly wages not exceeding three hundred rupees There appear to be no manual labourers in India in receipt of over Rs 300 a month It is therefore proposed to delete the reference to manual labour from section 2 (1) (n) (ii) of the Act The Act will then apply to all workmen employed in any capacity specified in Schedule II in receipt of monthly wages not exceeding Rs 300.

Clause 2 (b)—The wording of the existing sub-section (3) of section 2 has proved inconvenient in drafting notifications under the section The amendment embodies a redraft of the existing clause without any change of substance, other than the omission, following on the preceding amendment, of any reference to manual labour

Caluse 3 (a) (i)—This amendment is consequential upon the proposed reduction of the waiting period from ten days to seven, vide note on clause 4

Clause 3 (a) (ii)—The three exceptions contained in proviso (b) to section 3 (1) of the Act operate to remove the liability of the employer to pay compensation when the accident is due to specific misconduct on the part of the workman e g, intoxication by drink or drugs, wilful disobedience to certain rules and orders and wilful removal of safety devices Where a workman is killed, it is extremely difficult for dependants to rebut evidence that the accident was caused by the deceased's misconduct This is specially true where the employer's defence is that the workman disobeyed a safety rule, e g, a rule against cleaning machinery in motion Moreover the withholding of compensation for fatal accidents which are covered by the exceptions gives rise to great hardship to dependants and is not likely to have any appreciable educative effects on other workmen The amendment therefore seeks to make the exceptions inapplicable in the case of fatal accidents The proposal here made had the unanimous support of the Royal Commission on Labour, a majority recommended also that the exceptions should not apply in cases where a permanent loss of 50 per cent or more of earning capacity results from the accident In a non-fatal accident, the injured workman is in a position to contest the defences put forward by the employer and the members of the Commission themselves recognised that the case for abrogating the exceptions in such cases is " less strong "

Clause 3 (b)—The provision in section 3 (4) of the Act which limits liability for non-scheduled diseases to those " solely and directly attributable to a specific injury " is unduly stringent, diseases can rarely if ever be regarded as solely due to one cause

Clause 4—(1) This amendment and that contained in clause 22 follow the recommendations made unanimously by the Labour Commission The effect of these amendments would be to enhance considerably compensation payable for death and permanent disablement in the case of the more poorly-paid workmen (i e, those getting less than Rs 17-8-0) and those in receipt of high wages (i e, those getting more than Rs 80 a month) Compensation for temporary disablement would also be substantially enhanced for most workmen

The enhanced scales are indicated in Schedule IV in caluse 22 In place of the existing fourteen wage classes seventeen have been substituted Except in the last two classes, compensation is based on the highest wage of the class and not, as at present, the mean wage. For the last two classes compensation is based on wages of Rs 125 and Rs 150, respectively. In determining the amount of compensation payable, the existing basis of calculation of compensation for death at thirty months' wages and for permanent total disablement at 42

months' wages in the case of adults and at 84 months' wages in the case of minors has been retained The minimum compensation has been fixed in the case of adults for death at Rs. 600 and for permanent total disablement at Rs 840, while the maximum amounts for death and permanent total disablement are increased from Rs 2,500 and Rs 3,500 to Rs 4,500 and Rs 6,300 respectively In cases of temporary disablement, in addition to raising the maximum half-monthly payment from Rs 15 to Rs 30, the rate of compensation has been increased in the case of adults whose monthly wages do not exceed Rs 30 to two-thirds of the monthly wages and, in the case of minors, to full wages

At the same time, certain drafting changes are proposed In the Act as it at present stands, compensation is expressed in terms of monthly wages in most cases in section 4 Monthly wages have to be calculated according to rules given in section 5 and have then to be modified to certain assumed wages in accordance with Schedule IV If the amendments made by this clause are adopted, the fiction of ' assumed wages '' will disappear, and after the application of the rules relating to calculation of wages in section 5, a reference to Schedule IV will give, in most cases, the exact amount of compensation payable without further calculations It should be noted that while it is proposed to replace the whole of section 4 (1) by the section contained in this clause, considerable parts of the new sub-section, and in particular the whole of paragraph C, reproduce verbatim the existing provisions

(2) The waiting period of ten days specified in the existing section 4 is rather long and sometimes results in hardship, it is longer than that prescribed by the great majority of Acts in other countries It is proposed to reduce it to seven days as recommended by the Commission

Clause 5 —The provisions in section 5 of the Act for the calculation of wages give some difficulty in application to cases where the workman has been engaged for a very short period before the accident, e g, less than a month A clause to obviate the difficulty was included in the amending Bill introduced in the Legislative Assembly in 1928, but it was eliminated by the Select Committee because there were doubts as to its equity and it was desired to avoid making any amendments of a controversial character at that time The Commission as a result of their examination of the question has recommended the clause for adoption Sub-clause (a) (ii) is intended to give effect to that recommendation The other amendments in this clause are consequential on the drafting amendments included in the preceding clause and clause 22

Clause 6 —The Act as it stood prior to its amendment in 1929 gave power to the Commissioner to deduct from the compensation deposited with him the actual funeral expenses of the workman up to a maximum of Rs 50 The Select Committee of the Legislative Assembly on the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Bill, 1928, introduced certain changes which found a place in the Act as finally passed and had the effect of empowering the employer to make to any person by whom the funeral expenses are to be or have been incurred a payment of not more than Rs 50 for such expenses and to deduct the amount from the compensation This provision has been found to lend itself to abuse and in three cases from Bengal brought to the notice of the Commission the employer had paid the maximum sum to his own sardar for the expenses incurred in the funeral of a deceased workman Further it is not open to the Commissioner to question the suitability of the amount paid or to satisfy himself that the whole amount has been spent on the funeral The amendment is designed to prevent funeral expenses being deducted from the compensation before it is deposited and to provide instead that, on the deposit of the compensation, the Commissioner should deduct the actual cost of the workman's funeral expenses up to Rs 25 (the present limit of Rs 50 is unnecessarily high) and pay hem to the person who has incurred them

Clause 7 (a) —The provisions regarding notice contained in existing section 10 are unduly stringent in their terms The Commissioner has wide powers to dispense with the necessity of a notice, but there are a number of cases in which no notice is necessary Further want of or a defect in a notice should not be a bar to proceedings if the employer is proved to have had knowledge of the accident from another source

Clause 7 (b) —Notice-books, if effectively maintained, are of assistance both to employers and to workmen, and in spite of the illiteracy of many Indian workmen books might be utilised in some branches of industry

Clause 8 —Knowledge of the Workmen's Compensation Act is spreading steadily in industrial areas, but a long time must elapse before that knowledge can become generally diffused in the villages The dependants of many workmen live in rural areas, which may be situated several hundred miles from the place where the workman is employed The illiteracy of most workmen and of their dependants and the long distance separating them frequently operate to prevent knowledge of an accident being promptly received and even when information has come, the dependants of a workman who has been killed may have no knowledge of the law, or insufficient knowledge to enable them to proceed with an application for compensation. These provisions are designed to ensure (i) that, in as many cases as possible, fatal accidents are brought to the notice of the Commissioner, (ii) that, where the employer admits liability, compensation is deposited promptly, and (iii) that, where the employer disclaims liability and there are good grounds for believing compensation to be payable, the dependants get the information necessary to enable them to judge if they should make a claim or not

Clause 9.—Sub-section (2) of section 12 of the Act provides that where a principal is liable to pay compensation under the section he is entitled to be indemnified by the contractor. There is in the section no provision relating to sub-contracts, which are not uncommon in Indian industry A recent decision of the Calcutta High Court has made it apparent that no indemnification can be obtained under the Act from a sub-contractor in respect of compensation awarded against the principal for injuries sustained by a sub-contractor's workman The amendment seeks to remove this defect

Clause 10 —The amendment is designed to provide for the imposition of a small fine for failure to furnish a return, notice, etc , required under the Act

Clauses 11, 12, and 13—These amendments are designed to make it possible for local Governments to appoint more than one Commissioner having jurisdiction in the same area, where this is desirable

Clause 14—As the Act stands at present, a dependant who finds that no compensation has been deposited on account of the death of a deceased workman must first approach the employer This is illogical since, in the case of fatal accidents, the Act precludes the parties from reaching an agreement that will be final

Clause 15—Cases arise in which the amount of compensation deposited on account of a fatal accident is inadequate It is not clear under the existing law whether the Commissioner can take steps on his own initiative to secure that the full amount of compensation is deposited The amendment is designed to empower the Commissioner to call on an employer to make up an inadequate deposit to the proper amount

Clauses 16 and 17--Section 8 of the Act does not prescribe any particular period during which compensation deposited with the Commissioner must be distributed by him, but it is doubtful whether he can, without statutory authority, withhold a payment for the periods which are sometimes necessary for the decision of an appeal by a High Court These amendments seek to confer the necessary authority on the Commissioner to withhold payment of compensation pending the decision of the appeal In order to prevent hardship power is at the same time given to the Commissioner to distribute a small sum for the maintenance of the opposite party during the pendency of the appeal This sum, which can in no case exceed Rs 100 and is intended to be disbursed in necessitous cases only, will not be recoverable

Clause 18—These amendments are consequential on those in clauses 7 (b) and 8 of the Bill

Clause 19—The proposed section, which follows a resolution of the Imperial Conference, 1926, would make it possible to arrange for the more convenient distribution of compensation due under the Indian Act to persons in other parts of the Empire and of compensation due under British or Dominion laws to persons in British India

Clause 20—The present Act aims at the inclusion of persons employed in branches of industry which are both organised and hazardous The Commission have recommended that the Act should be extended to cover as completely as possible the workers in organised industry, whether their occupations are hazardous or not, and that there should be a gradual extension to workers in less organised industries, beginning with those who are subject to most risk Following this principle they have suggested the widening in most cases of the existing classes in Schedule II and the inclusion of an entirely new class consisting of workers on plantations The Commission estimate that their proposals " will have the effect of adding perhaps 2,000,000 workers to the number (estimated at 4,000,000) already included " About half of this number is accounted for by the inclusion of plantation workers whose risks of accidents are trifling and, as the Commission observe, the increase in the number of possible claims will be by no means proportionate to the increase in the number of employees covered Items (xv), (xvi), (xvii), (xviii) and (xx) introduce new classes of workmen to the Act while items (i), (ii), (iii), (iv), (vi), (vii), (xiii) and (xix) involve enlargements of existing categories Item (xx) is the only new item not proposed by the Commission

Clause 21—Of the four industrial diseases which it is proposed to add to the Schedule, the first is already an industrial disease for the purposes of the Act by virtue of a notification issued under section 3 (3) in 1926 The addition of the next two diseases was recommended by the Commission and the addition of the last by the Government of Bombay

Clause 22—See note on clause 4.
